

Legislature Seeks Census Recheck

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Fearing that the 1970 Census may have missed as many as 10,000 persons in its recent head count of residents, the Ulster County Legislature voted unanimously Thursday night to request a recheck.

The board also will ask the Federal Census Bureau to personally certify that all census takers have covered 100 per cent of the territory assigned to them and to determine as far as possible that all Ulster County residents have been counted.

The board, worried about the possible loss of federal and state aid, asked that the recount be taken "immediately."

Preliminary figures show the county's population has increased from about 118,000 to 136,000, a boost of 17 per cent.

However, the New York State Department of Commerce demographic studies of planning agencies indicated that the population of Ulster County is between 145,000 and 146,000, according to Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Legislature and sponsor of the resolution.

Savago said that many citizens have called city, town and county officials complaining that they were not contacted in the census. Still others complained that their census forms had never been picked up.

He said that an accurate determination of the number of people living in the county is important because some state and federal aid programs monies are based on the population.

Earlier this week Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig, equally concerned that the city census figures fell far short of the actual count, sent out an urgent appeal for all residents who were not contacted to notify him. Response to the plea has been good.

The taking of the census in Ulster County was handled by the office of the census in Poughkeepsie, headed by Marjorie Bronson.

Trouble apparently seemed to plague the operation from the start with three men in succession, assigned as field representatives resigning the post. A fourth, the Rev. David Miller of Salt Point was appointed three months after the office was established and just prior to the start of enumerating.

In other Legislative action, the board increased the compensation for grand and trial jurors and court attendants by a dollar a day and a cent a mile, appointed Kenneth Whispell, clerk of the works for the new Ulster County infirmity and reappointed Lawrence Kelder to the Ulster County Civil Service Commission.

The board also authorized the purchase of a $20,000 piece of property adjacent to Ulster County Community College and authorized the issuance of $300,000 in serial bonds for the purchase of highway equipment. Authorization also was given to enter into contracts for construction of the Powder Mill Bridge in the Town of Kingston.

There were seven resolutions requesting permission for certain county employees to attend conferences. All were approved with the exception of one submitted by Glenn Debrosky (R-Dist. 7) which would have given permission to the county's three coroners to attend a meeting in St. Paul, Minn. The request was for Aug. 25-29 to attend the International Association of Coroners' Conference annual meeting.

Still another measure met with some controversy although it passed by a vote of 24-8 with one absent.

The resolution, submitted by Savago and Brian White (R-Dist. 9), chairman of the Community College Committee, asked the Legislature to approve a "full opportunity" plan whereby entrance requirements to the college would allow any resident of Ulster County who is a high school graduate or veteran to enroll.

By having such an "open door" policy, there would be an automatic increase in state aid of from 33 1/3 per cent to 40 per cent for operating costs of the college.

A proposal to amend the resolution limiting it to one year in order to enable some future board to establish requirements was made by William West (R-Dist. 12). It was defeated 19-13, one absent.

Voting on the question, those opposed included Elmen-dorf, Debrosky, Sangaline, Scala, Lewis Hall (R-Dist. 2), Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1) and James Palen (R-Dist. 9).

Telegrams to Javits, Fish

Koenig Pushes Inquiry

KINGSTON
Mayor Francis R. Koenig is continuing to probe the recently reported population decrease in the City of Kingston, and has sent telegrams to U.S. Senator Jacob K. Javits and Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. concerning a possible miscount in the recent census.

Preliminary figures received from Mrs. Marjorie Bronson, District Manager of the U.S. Census Office in Poughkeepsie, have indicated a drop of 4,148 residents within the city since 1960. According to a 1960 census report, the population of Kingston was 29,260, and the preliminary 1970 figures claim there are 25,112 residents in the City of Kingston. This decrease of approximately 11 per cent could mean a loss of about $40,000 in state aid to the City of Kingston, and Mayor Koenig is deeply concerned.

Since his plea went out to city residents on Wednesday requesting they notify him if they hadn't been counted in the 1970 Federal Census, Mayor Koenig has received numerous phone calls, letters and postcards from residents who hadn't been counted.

Mayor Koenig said that it had been reported to his office that all of South Clinton Avenue had never been canvassed in the 1970 Federal Census. The mayor said this represented 27 persons and that he had received reports of other streets on which the canvassing was not completed. He added that many residents had not been canvassed in Stony Run and Rondout Gardens Apartments.

Mayor Koenig also showed The Freeman his own 1970 Census form, which he said had not been picked up by the census takers. The mayor said that he was called by the Census Bureau shortly before the Kingston figures were taken to Poughkeepsie and that his census was taken over the phone, but that he was very doubtful of how accurate the phone call census was.

In his telegram to Congressman Fish, Mayor Koenig said, "my office . . . can now definitely verify that the census is incorrect." The mayor cited the phone calls and letters as positive proof and requested "all possible assistance available" from Congressman Fish's office to bring about a recanvass.

Mayor Koenig also requested assistance from Senator Javits' office for a recanvass in light of the daily phone calls, letters and telegrams. He also stated in a telegram to Javits that he (Koenig), contacted the Kingston Urban Renewal Director and Building Inspector for a complete report as to relocation of residents and construction of apartments and dwellings in Kingston.

Mayor Koenig told The Freeman that 163 private dwellings have been constructed in the City of Kingston since 1960. The Mayor noted that this figure does not include private dwellings converted from one family to two family dwellings. The Mayor also noted the construction of some 400 new apartment dwellings since 1960.

Ralph Marrello, who is in charge of Urban Renewal relocation is preparing the figures on relocation, the Mayor added.

Koenig concluded that although the population of Kingston may not have risen, it doesn't seem to have decreased.

Shootout Is Described at Trial

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
Vivid details of the shootout on the State Thruway in 1968 that resulted in the killing of a 63-year-old Westchester County deputy sheriff were related Thursday afternoon at the murder trial of two convicts by a prosecution witness.

The witness, 60-year-old Deputy Sheriff Joseph Singer of North Tarrytown, testified under direct examination that Gerald McGivern, a defendant, and the late Deputy Sheriff William Fitzgerald "fired simultaneously" at each other.

McGivern and Charles Culhane, both 25, are on trial before County Judge Raymond

J. Mino and a jury. They are accused of Fitzgerald's murder in the Town of Plattekill on the afternoon of Sept. 13, 1968.

Paul Vladimir, counsel for Culhane, accused Singer during cross-examination, of changing his story relating to his testimony yesterday and statements made by the deputy at a preliminary hearing and before a grand jury. The lawyer read from grand jury testimony which quoted Singer as telling State Police shortly after the shooting that "Fitzgerald fired and I believe it struck the man holding the gun. The person, who were to testify at a court hearing in White Plains. He told of stopping the car enroute to the request of Bowerman, the last stop being where the shooting occurred, on the Thruway near Plattekill.

Singer repeatedly denied under cross-examination that he was grabbed from behind by Culhane. He said, "I had a set of handcuffs and an iron ring around my neck. I saw Culhane. I saw my partner being pulled back by Bowerman. I felt my gun leaving my holster." He said then he saw McGivern pointing the gun at Fitzgerald.

Singer said Fitzgerald told McGivern to "drop the gun" and McGivern refused. "McGivern told my partner to take off the handcuffs," the witness testified.

"Then I saw fire coming from both guns," Singer said. "My partner said 'Joe, they got me.'" hane jumped over the front seat during the incident. Singer said he retrieved his gun and the one Fitzgerald had. Culhane was shot in the head in a scuffle with Singer, the witness said. "Bowerman made a dive for me and I shot him," Singer testified. He said he wasn't certain how many shots he fired.

Singer who had taken over driving Fitzgerald's car on the way back from Auburn, testified that McGivern jumped out of the car after the shooting. Culhane also left the vehicle, Fitzgerald slumped on the passenger's side of the car. Bowerman was in the rear. Both were pronounced dead at the scene by a physician.

Singer said McGivern sprawled out in tall grass off the Thruway. Culhane sat on the ground near the car and both were guarded by Singer until troopers arrived.

Vladimir cross-examined Singer at length about statements he made prior to the trial, and a statement Singer admitted signing which showed inconsistencies relating to the first shots that were fired during the incident.

Under direct examination by Torraca, Singer was asked if he saw McGivern and Culhane in court. He pointed to each of them. The witness told the jurors that before leaving Auburn prison, he had put handcuffs and a security belt on each prisoner.

He demonstrated how he placed the cuffs and belts on the trio using the district attorney as a model. He identified each set of handcuffs and belts as the ones put on each prisoner.

Two .38 caliber revolvers were shown the witness by Torraca. Singer identified the one belonging to him and the revolver Fitzgerald had. The firearms, handcuffs and belts went into evidence without objection by defense counsel.

Ellenville OEO—Contradiction

By JON POWERS

ELLENVILLE
Office of Economic Opportunity officials in the nation's capital told Congressman Hamilton Fish's office Thursday that there is, indeed, "some substance to the allegations" that the OEO branch office in Ellenville has operated contrary to OEO guidelines.

This statement from the main office of the OEO directly contradicts earlier allegations by New York City OEO officials that the case has been closed and that the Ellenville office

"was not running contrary to OEO guidelines."

The Freeman learned Thursday that two OEO officials from New York City, Joseph Baglio and Charles Buckley, were in Ellenville Tuesday to hear complaints that the Wawarsing Neighborhood Service Center performed irregular political activities during the village election campaign in March. It was emphasized that the investigator's appearance in Ellenville was not a routine business trip, as had been previously contended by the regional office in New York City.

The initial controversy came about when Ellenville Village Trustee DeWitt Clinton drafted a letter charging the local OEO office with "actively engaging in partisan politics on taxpayer time." It was alleged that the Wawarsing Neighborhood Service Center office was used to recruit support for the Democratic Party from black and Puerto Rican members of the Ellenville community.

Clinton further charged that "new registrants were told how to vote and some were recruited during regular office hours while the office itself was closed." According to Clinton, who ran for reelection as trustee in March, a sample voting machine was illegally set up in the OEO office and that the "machine had been found in their office with only Row B names clearly penciled in."

It was added that Row B on the voting machine contained only the names of the Democratic slate of candidates.

Officials in Rep. Fish's office in Washington told The Freeman that results of the investigation will be reported to the congressman's office "some time next week" and then will be made public. Clinton has declined comment on the matter until the investigation is closed.

According to reports, Rep. Fish was first asked to probe into the allegations by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and to take measures to correct any existing irregularities. Fish then wrote a letter to Clinton promising that he would look into the matter. Fish, it was learned, sent a letter to Donald Rumsfeld, head of the OEO, requesting that a full investigation be conducted.

Clinton's letter was initially sent to Rep. Fish, Assemblyman Bell, Ulster County District Attorney Joseph Torraca, Republican county chairman Albert Spada, State Senator Jay P. Rolison, Jr. and New York Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo.

Abortion Law Unlikely to End All Problems

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second in a two-part series dealing with the new State Abortion Law. Today's concluding article covers the cited inadequacies within the law and comments of four area hospital administrators who point to various problems of cost, religious restrictions and hospital overcrowding.

By MATT J. SPIRENG

KINGSTON
The new state law permitting any abortions performed during the first 24 weeks of pregnancy with the consent of a physician and the woman involved, will not end all abortion problems, a survey by The Freeman indicates.

Several area physicians have cited inadequacies within the law, and talks with administrators at four area hospitals have indicated that there may be problems of cost, religious restrictions and hospital overcrowding.

The 24-week limit was cited by several physicians as being too long a time to wait for an abortion. One said that the 24-week requirement is beyond what would normally be the maximum even in cases of danger to the mother. Another said he thought 12 weeks should be the limit, and that any beyond 12 weeks should be only for therapeutic reasons. "Even illegal abortionists do them early to avoid unnecessary dangers," commented one physician.

Another problem cited by several physicians is that of consent. As the law now stands, only the mother's consent is needed along with that of a physician, but some doctors felt that the father's consent should also be required.

The survey has indicated that the average cost in the area will be about $300 in doctor's fees plus $150 to $250 in hospital costs for those abortions performed during the first 12 weeks of pregnancy and barring complications.

Throughout the state, hospitals run by the Catholic Church will not perform abortions. In accordance with this, there will be no abortions performed at Benedictine Hospital. The "Code of Medical Ethics for Catholic Hospitals" states: "Any procedure which constitutes the direct killing of an innocent person is always morally wrong. Direct abortion is a direct killing of an unborn child, and it is never permitted." Terence Cardinal Cooke has stated on behalf of the New York State Bishops that the law "is a direct attack on the sanctity of human life." Sister Mary Charles, O.S.B., administrator of the Benedictine Hospital said that the basic principles of the Code of Ethics are the present guidelines at that hospital.

Special

At Kingston Hospital, Anthony R. Triulzi, administrator, said that the guidelines have not yet been totally delineated, but that the chief of surgery and the chief of obstetrics-gynecology are preparing a draft of guidelines to be presented before the Medical Board and the Board of Trustees later this month. He added that they will be utilizing existing guidelines promulgated by the Medical Society of the State of New York, the Hospital Association of New York State, Albany Medical Center Hospital and the State Public Health Council.

Triulzi said that the possible new influx of patients might cause problems at Kingston Hospital since there is already an acute shortage of beds. When asked whether the hospital would take out-of-state abortion cases, Triulzi said that he wouldn't know for certain until the guidelines are finalized, but added, "I think we would take people from out of state, but our first obligation is to the people of Ulster County."

At Ellenville Community Hospital, guidelines have not yet been finalized, according to Evald Bors-Koeft, administrator. He said that they will be made within the guidelines of good medical practice and those presented by the State Medical Society, the State Health Department and the State Hospital Association. He added that he didn't foresee any particular problems at the hospital, and that he thought the law was a "bit on the wide open side." He also said he thought most hospitals would have more exacting guidelines.

Michael Mazzarella, administrator of Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck, said abortions will be performed at that hospital and that the hospital should be able to handle the situation well if women present their requests for abortions early enough.

He also said that it was the feeling of the staff that no abortions should be done after 12 weeks of pregnancy, but that there might be exceptions. Mazzarella added that abortions might cause serious moral concern with doctors who have spent their lives "pulling out the stops to save babies."

Unanimous Board Vote

Saugerties OKs Assembly Law

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
SAUGERTIES
A new assembly law, which had precipitated heated discussion at several recent town meetings, was unanimously adopted at Thursday night's Saugerties Town Board meeting.

The new Local Law No. 5, which repeals a previous enactment and becomes effective immediately, regulates sanitation, parking and other facilities attendant with assemblies held on private property within the township.

The new plan requires that an application for permit be filed with the town clerk for any gatherings on private lands embracing 200 or more persons. The application must accompany an approved permit from the Ulster County Health Department certifying that sanitation facilities for such an assembly are adequate to accommodate the needs of those so assembled.

The penalty for failure to secure such a permit places the owner, lessees or sponsors in violation and upon conviction could be fined $500 or sentenced to 60 days in jail, or both. Each day of the violation shall constitute a separate offense, according to the law.

Commenting on the law, William Igoe noted his concern as he is interested in conducting public auctions.

Mrs. Harvey Fite said "it is a good law" but thought that hour limitations should be part of the enactment.

Ian Haim, representing Pan Copeland, who owns a farm on Glasco Turnpike near Shultis Corners was given the opportunity to outline plans for several mini-festivals on the Copeland property.

He referred to an article in The Freeman, which he said substantially explained what he is planning for weekends of music during July and August. Haim noted that these music festivals have been operating at the farm for about four or five years and he feels the community would benefit from the festivals.

Haim said they have gone to great expense in order to avoid some of the problems of last summer's Woodstock Music and Art Festival held at White Lake in Sullivan County. He said ticket sales would be limited to 2,000 and the gathering would be all on one site. Haim said cars would be parked elsewhere and those attending would be bused to the festival site. He also noted that they are planning to prepare the grounds to conform with Health Department requirements and a band shell would be so positioned as to contain the music to the assembly area. He said they planned three concerts on weekends and listed specific hours including Friday 7 to 11 p. m.; Saturday 4 to 11 p. m., and Sunday 2 to 6 p. m.

There were no comments from the board members. Haim was refused permission to outline plans for the mini-festivals at the public hearing on the new law June 4 when Town Attorney Richard B. Overbush ruled that comments must pertain to the local law. Haim at that time was permitted to express his objections to certain sections of the law.

In other business, Supervisor A. Michael Schovel read a letter from Asbury-Katsbaan Fire Company complaining about the condition of High Falls Road in Asbury and the Old Schoolhouse Road to the Wilhelm property. Superintendent of Highways Charles Bach said his department was already making repairs on these two town roads.

Supervisor Schovel also read a letter from the Town Planning Board outlining some of the changes proposed in the subdivision controls now under study.

Three applications for trailer permits were received and the Town Board will make inspections of the sites before making its determination. They included Willard W. Rivenburg of Saxton; Jesse and Marjorie Souza, Quarryville, and William J. Lattanzio of West Saugerties for a site in Quarryville.

A letter also was received from Saugerties Builders Association in which they asked the Town Board to consider a simplified set of rules instead of the subdivision controls proposed by the Planning Board.

YOUNG AMERICANS — Honored as Young Americans of the Year Thursday night were Susan Conrad of Our Lady of Lourdes High School, Poughkeepsie and Mark Grazer of Ontario Central High School, Boiceville. Extending congratulations are Max Schoff (L) manager of the local Montgomery Ward store which sponsors the youth recognition program and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell who was guest speaker at the dinner. Miss Conrad, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Conrad of 37 Thornwood Drive, Poughkeepsie, and Grazer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Grazer of Wittenberg, each received a $50 savings bond in recognition of their outstanding academic and community achievements. ## Two City Fires, Pair in County

Four fires were reported in Ulster County during the night—two in Kingston, one in Centerville, and one in Highland. Both fires in Kingston were believed to be of incendiary origin, and police are investigating the blazes.

At approximately 6:45 p.m. Thursday, the Kingston Fire Department was called to a fire at Dwyer's Boat Basin off Abeel Street. On arrival at the scene, firemen found the blaze confined to a discarded section of an old small boat and a wooden dock in the vicinity of Kingston Boat Basin, also off Abeel Street. No injuries were reported. Heavy damage was reported to the boat and dock. Investigation of the blaze is under the direction of Deputy Fire Chief Glynn Southard.

Later the same evening the fire department received a call at approximately 7:36 p.m. concerning a fire in a railroad boxcar on Greenkill Avenue and Sterling Street. On arrival they found a fire in bailed and shredded paper in a Penn Central boxcar at a Greenkill Avenue loading dock.

Firemen called the Penn Central dispatcher, and Jack Morris responded.

Considerable damage was reported to the contents and the plywood interior of the boxcar, as well as some damage to exterior paint. The paper contents were consigned to the International Paper Company, Napanoch.

One injury was reported at this fire. A volunteer fireman, Hilton Mathews, suffered abrasions of the right elbow due to a fall. He required no treatment.

The police investigation of this blaze is also under the direction of Deputy Southard.

At shortly after 12 midnight a fire was reported in a two-story frame dwelling on Church Road in Highwoods. Occupying the building were Mrs. Myrtle Short, owner, and the William Brown, Jr. family. Extensive damage was reported on the building. The Centerville and Cedar Grove fire companies initially reported to the blaze, and trucks from the Woodstock and Mt. Marion fire companies were later summoned through mutual aid. No injuries were reported.

In Highland, a fire was reported in a coal shed at Johnson Coal Yard near a Penn Central track on Vineyard Avenue. It was reported that the shed, which was partially filled, was completely destroyed. The blaze was reported at approximately 11 p.m. and the Highland Fire Department was kept busy until 3 this morning. The department was called later today, to attend the smoldering shed. No injuries were reported.

Vols Will Outline Convention

KINGSTON
Final plans for Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention July 23, 24 and 25 at Saugerties will be outlined at the County Vols meeting Tuesday, June 16 at 8 p.m. in new Glasco Fire Station.

Secretary Fred Harder said this will be the last chance for paid up members to secure tickets to the annual banquet to be held at Glasco Fire Station.

Seating is limited to 300.

Harder said some companies have not filed the names of their delegates and this should be done at the meeting. Also 1970 dues may be paid at this session.

Tunney's Girl Pleads Guilty In Mate's Death

LONDON (UPI)—Mrs. Joan Tunney Wilkinson, daughter of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, pleaded guilty today to charges of killing her husband. She was ordered locked up in Broadmoor prison asylum.

At a hearing in historic Old Bailey courtroom, Judge Carl Arnold accepted Mrs. Wilkinson's plea of guilty to a charge of manslaughter on the grounds of diminished responsibility.

Psychiatric testimony given during the hearing said that Mrs. Wilkinson, 30, had suffered from schizophrenia for the past nine years and that there was a danger she might commit further homicidal attacks.

Her husband, Lynne Carter Wilkinson, was found dead of head injuries last March 29 in the couple's home in the village of Cheneys about 28 miles northwest of London in a suburban area known as the "Stockbrokers Belt."

The incident occurred six months after the Wilkinsons and their two young daughters moved into the home.

Last August 28, the dark-haired Mrs. Wilkinson disappeared from Bergen, Norway, during a family vacation. She turned up about six weeks later wandering along the French Mediterranean coast near Marseilles and was subsequently treated for amnesia.

Mrs. Wilkinson's brother, John, is a member of Congress from California. He won the California Democratic primary last week for the right to oppose Republican Sen. George Murphy in his bid for reelection this November.

Gene Tunney, her father, won the world heavyweight boxing championship in 1926 by defeating Jack Dempsey.

Key Uptown UR Breakthrough, Metropolitan Job Starts Soon

KINGSTON Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today that Urban Renewal's major breakthrough for Kingston was completed Thursday with Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's purchase of Uptown land for its new 400 employee office facility. Construction, estimated to cost near $2 million, is expected to start in two weeks, according to the mayor.

The Common Council and Agency authorized the sale on May 26 and transfer of the land took place at Metropolitan's home office in New York City. Henry F. Millonig, Eddie A. Parker and James G. Connors, the Agency's Chairman, Secretary and Director respectively, represented the City at the transaction, the Mayor said.

The total land area on which the new facility will be constructed consists of approximately five (5) acres at the corner of Washington Avenue and the new Clinton Avenue, selling for $118,500, and is being delivered in two stages. Yesterday's transaction conveyed enough land at a selling price of $84,924 to allow Metropolitan to complete construction of its building. The balance of the parcel will be delivered later at a cost of $33,576 to allow for parking and landscaping.

A security deposit in the amount of $11,850 also was made with the Agency to assure Metropolitan's good faith in completing its facility.

The new facility will employ some 400 persons. Metropolitan has maintained a record storage center employing about 100 people, in Kingston for many years. Last year about 150 employees were added to the staff to handle the overflow of clerical work from the company's home office in New York City.

The company will maintain its record office off Greenkill Avenue in addition to its new facility. It is anticipated that between 200 and 250 new employees will be hired from the surrounding area to staff the new office. Earlier this year, Mayor Koenig cited the Common Council and the Urban Renewal Agency "not only for its work this year, but its work in the past" that resulted in bringing Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to Kingston. "It will be a big asset to the economy of our city," Koenig said at that time.

William S. York, senior vice president of Metropolitan, revealed earlier this year that his company had considered building in the Downtown project but later found that the Uptown project was better suited for the company's needs.

York, explaining at that time why his firm decided on Kingston, said, "We've had a high opinion of Kingston and its people. We are indeed fortunate that we can help with the redevelopment of this lovely old city."

"This major breakthrough in Urban Renewal activity highlights the progress being made towards our goal of strengthening the city's real estate tax base, and in addition will provide new jobs to assure Kingston's economic stability," he Mayor concluded in his announcement.

Whittier Petition Reveals Some Sewer Exclusions

LAKE KATRINE A petition by Whittier Civic Association filed with Ulster Town Board Thursday night revealed that certain properties within the bounds of the Ulster Sewer Improvement area are not being assessed due to exclusions made in the formation of the district.

Whittier Civic Association filed the petition, which later conversation brought out was aimed at about 20 homes in Hudson View Gardens, who have exclusion because they are using septic tanks. Robert F. Hayes, association president, filed the petition.

Supervisor Carmine Sabino explained that Hudson View Gardens had been excluded because they will not hook up to the sewerage system. However, he said they will be assessed for any additions or improvements after the original facility is in operation. The petition was referred to Town Attorney William Pretsch for further study.

The Ulster supervisor reported that the Town Board and building inspector will make on-site inspections.

Six junkyard permits which expired on April 1 and issued on a temporary basis, will be continued until the Town Board can check if recommendations to conform to the town law have been made by the junkyard operators involved.

A petition from 15 residents of the Yarmouth and Harwich Street area in regards to a drainage ditch problem at the rear of the two streets was referred to the town attorney for study. Supervisor Sabino said this drainage ditch is on private property and the town has no easement.

Supervisor Sabino reported he had received word from the New York Telephone Company office in Albany that work on telephone poles in the Eddyville area has been completed and Cablevision Inc., can now proceed with installation of service in that area. Cablevision has a June 30 deadline for installation under its town franchise.

The Ulster supervisor announced that owners of single mobile homes on private lots must file applications for permits with the town clerk, Mrs. Alma Macholdt. He noted this is mandatory under the town's trailer law.

A resolution was approved to allow four town officials to attend a seminar on a new coding system for municipal bookkeeping to be held at Ulster County Community College July 13 and 14.

Lenefsky Goal: Establish New Tax System

WEST SHOKAN David Lenefsky, Democratic-Liberal candidate for State Senator from Ulster and Dutchess Counties, said Thursday he can prove that the present New York State tax system favors the wealthy over middle and low income families. "It is incredible, but true," Lenefsky said, "that the existing tax system is actually designed to hurt most low and middle income consumers."

"It is time the facts are exposed to the public," Lenefsky said, "citizens of Ulster and Dutchess Counties should know that more than 35 per cent of the state's cash income in 1969-70 came from sales and consumption taxes—just the kind of tax which brutally hits hardest those who least can afford it. In contrast, general business taxes contributed only 15.2 per cent of the state's cash income."

Lenefsky charged his opponent with "covering up the existing inequitable tax situation and with failing to tell the people how the State tax system is taking advantage of them." He asserted, "my goal in Albany would be to establish a new tax system which would tax those who can best afford to pay." He said, "the state's sales tax system has been abused because too many commodities which are taxed are used by the wealthy as well as poor, thus, although the amount of the tax is equal for both, the burden of the tax is greater on the lower income person."

Lenefsky said, "New York State actually receives a smaller percentage of its income today from business taxes than it did in 1960. What has happened is that low and middle income families are being taken for a ride—sold down the sales tax drain. It is disgraceful how the state government has piled sales tax upon sales tax during the past 10 years. Sales taxes account for 33 per cent more of total state revenue today than in 1960."

"My campaign will be issue oriented," Lenefsky said, "exposing governmental abuses and proposing alternatives for resolving state and community problems."

$1,040,204 Bids for YM, All Within the Budget

KINGSTON Low bids totaling $1,040,204 were received Thursday for Phase I, Unit I of the Kingston YMCA's proposed new construction in midtown Kingston. All low base bids were within the budget for the project, according to Robert D. Stubbs, executive director who said that the bids are being studied by the architect and building committee before awards are made.

The figures do not include architect's fees and services or furnishings he said. Further study of the bids is necessitated by the fact that there are a number of alternates to be considered.

Low bidder for general construction was G. H. Swart Inc. of Kingston with $737,356.

Low bid for electrical work came from Whitman Electric Inc., Kingston, with $58,588. Lowest base bid for plumbing was submitted by Bank Bros. Plumbing and Heating, Accord with $88,760.

Low bidder for heating and ventilating was C. B. Strain and Sons, Inc. of Kingston with $145,000 and the sprinkler system low bid was submitted by Mid-Hudson Automatic Sprinkler Company of Poughkeepsie with $11,500.

Stubbs said Y officials are looking forward to breaking ground for the new facility in the near future.

Meanwhile, YMCA officials have announced that June 15-20 will be registration week for all youth summer programs and that the in-city program has been expanded to include programs for all ages from preschool through junior high.

The first and second grade members will have swimming instruction and recreational gym programs two afternoons a week. The program will be held Monday and Wednesday afternoons.

The third through fourth grade members will have their recreational program Monday and Wednesday mornings.

This year's Junior High program will be expanded to include a soft ball league for boys and girls, a weekend camping program, and junior high dances. The boys league will be held Monday and Wednesday between 2:30 and 5 p.m., and the girls league will be on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, both afternoons of play will be followed by a one hour recreational swim. A new program for the YMCA this year will be a weekend camping program for Junior High age students. Plans are being made for a one night overnight to the YMCA's Day Camp, a bike hike to a local camping ground, and a weekend trip to Cape Cod. The Y will also hold at least two Friday Junior High dances throughout the summer.

Hotel Employee's Case Adjourned

ELLENVILLE Rosenstock. Hearing was adjourned until June 19 and the defendant was committed to the county jail in lieu of $500 bail. State Police said Trooper Francis Steiner went to the Nevele Hotel last night to investigate a complaint of criminal mischief in a room of the employees' quarters. They questioned Vasques and later reported they found the defendant had a number of assorted articles belonging to the hotel in a suitcase. Investigation of the criminal mischief complaint was continued.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices were irregularly lower at the opening of the New York Stock Exchange today.

The current consolidation period was expected to continue for the time being, particularly in this session, the last of the week and one which normally sees some "evening up" in advance of the weekend. The background news seemed to offer only discouragement to traders, particularly the unsettled situation in the Middle East.

Shortly after the opening the UPI marketwide indicator slipped 0.29 per cent with 426 issues traded. Of these, there were 192 declines and 103 advances. The Dow Jones industrial average eased fractionally.

Steels were mixed. Motors eased. Chemicals and oils turned lower.

In the steels, Bethlehem eased 1/4 to 22 1/2 and U.S. Steel rose 1/4 to 32 1/2. Republic gave up 1/4 to 29 1/2.

In the motors, Ford rose 1/4 to 42 1/2 and General Motors slipped the same amount to 63 1/2. Chrysler gave up 1/4 to 20 1/2.

Cities Service dipped 1/4 to 42 1/2. Mobile was unchanged at 44 1/2.

Tornado Hits Arkansas Town

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) — A tornado hit this mountain town of 16,000 and several nearby communities late Thursday night, killing one person and injuring about 25.

Authorities said that the victim was an unidentified man found dead in Oak Grove, southwest of here.

Hugh Means, administrator of Springdale Memorial Hospital, said about 25 persons were treated in the hospital's emergency room and about a half dozen of them were hospitalized.

"We believe the area hardest hit has been pretty thoroughly searched and have no reason to believe any more major injuries will come to our attention," Means said.

The injuries included fractured skulls, broken arms, a punctured lung and several cases of shock, he said.

National Guardsmen living in the area were called to duty to assist in searches of damaged houses and buildings.

Telephone service was disrupted. Surrounding communities dispatched ambulances and law enforcement personnel to Springdale, which is about 190 miles northwest of Little Rock.

Bonn Envoy Is Kidnaped

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Machine gun-firing terrorists kidnaped West German Ambassador Ennenfried von Holleben from his limousine Thursday night in an attack that killed one of the envoy's bodyguards and seriously wounded another. Witnesses said the leftwing terrorists, working with commando precision, swerved a green station wagon into the path of the ambassador's white Mercedes Benz and burst from the station wagon firing machine guns. They sprayed Von Holleben's car and struck a trailing guard car. A man and woman, posing as strolling lovers, nestled a machine gun between them, witnesses said. From the other side of the dark, narrow street, two other young men opened fire on Von Holleben's auto, killing a federal police agent, Irlado Regis, 53, who was sitting in the front with the ambassador. The kidnaping occurred 200 yards from Von Holleben's residence. Leaflets left by the terrorists warned the government to cease capturing or torturing "revolutionaries" during negotiations for the release of Von Holleben, 61, formerly chief of protocol of the Bonn Foreign Ministry for six years. In Bonn, it was announced the kidnapers had delivered a demand for the release of Brazilian political prisoners in exchange for the career diplomat. A West German Foreign Ministry spokesman said a note sent to the Embassy in Rio advised that the kidnapers would reveal later the names young men opened fire on Von Holleben's auto, killing a

Medina Speaks Out on My Lai

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To the stocky man, wearing his life's work in rows of campaign ribbons, it seems a simple truth: If you've never been there, you can't judge those who were.

The soldier is Ernest L. Medina, 33, captain of infantry, accused of murdering "not less" than 175 persons at My Lai 4 in South Vietnam on March 16, 1968.

Medina was questioned by a team of reporters in a special UPI "Washington Window" interview. Although under military court orders to make no public statements about the events at My Lai, the captain's legal advisers permitted discussion of two specific issues

Medina had talked about earlier. First, was what happened at My Lai, as President Nixon said it appeared to be, a massacre? Medina: "As I have stated on numerous occasions, I neither ordered a massacre nor did I see one take place."

Was Charge Correct? Second, did Medina, as specifically charged, kill a Vietnamese woman near a rice paddy?

Displaying little emotion, the captain recounted the incident. He said a helicopter pilot had dropped smoke to mark a Viet Cong body so U.S. troops could search for weapons.

Medina: "As I approached, I noticed it was a woman. I looked in the area and noticed there was no weapon. I turned and as I moved away from the area and as I was turning I noticed movement from the woman. The first thing that entered my mind was that she would have a hand grenade or a weapon. And I immediately spun around and instinctively fired and I shot the woman."

Medina, who commanded Company C, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry, spoke freely of his outfit and of the fatigue and frustrations he and his men encountered.

"Were Outstanding Soldiers"

"I felt I had the finest company in the United States Army and that the individuals serving under me were outstanding soldiers." The New Mexico-born and Colorado-reared officer said. But he also said physical weariness and low morale were problems in his company.

"We had a number of individuals who were killed and wounded by mines and booby traps. This type of thing you cannot fight back...I believe it's the most demoralizing thing the individual soldier must face. He doesn't know if the next step he's going to take may be his last."

Medina had some firm ideas about public reaction to the war. He said the fact that television was bringing uncensored films of the fighting into American living rooms for the first time—which he favored—shaped antiwar opinion in a way never experienced in any previous war.

Then, with more feeling than he permitted to show while talking about the specifics of Vietnam, Medina went on to declare that those who stay at home can never really understand what it is like to suffer and see death in war.

Majority Do Not Understand "I believe that there are certain people who understand it. But I feel that as a majority, the American people don't."

How does a man accused of murdering 175 human beings feel?

"Well, the charges are very overwhelming, very staggering, when you read them and realize what the Army is trying to prove against you. And it's very difficult to express your feelings on it. It scares you."

Would Medina, a man so eager to be a soldier that he got his unschooled Mexican-American grandparents to sign his National Guard enlistment papers when he was only 15 years old, go back to Vietnam? "I think that because I am a soldier—it is my career, a professional soldier—I would go back to Vietnam if they ordered me."

Lindsay Endorses Goodell, 'No Difficult Decision'

By United Press International New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay, who has consistently said it is "too early" to endorse any gubernatorial candidate, today announced his endorsement of Sen. Charles E. Goodell in the U.S. Senate race.

"This happily was not a difficult decision," Lindsay said. "Senator Goodell's outstanding service should command the support of every progressive New Yorker."

Lindsay and Goodell are both opponents of the war in Southeast Asia and share similar liberal views on other topics. Last year, when Lindsay was rejected in the Republican primary and was forced to run as a Liberal and Independent, Goodell endorsed him.

Lindsay has, so far, declined to endorse Governor Rockefeller — the head of the Republican statewide ticket this year. Rockefeller endorsed Republican-Conservative State Sen. John Marchi for mayor against Lindsay last year and the governor has been a supporter of President Nixon's Southeast Asian policy.

Lindsay said of Goodell "He has been candid, courageous, and forceful...I know how hard Senator Goodell has worked to make the federal government an active partner in our efforts to meet the urban crisis. His concern embraces the whole range of critical domestic issues."

Meanwhile, Rockefeller picked up another labor union endorsement.

International Longshoremen's Union President Thomas Gleason said Thursday he supports Rockefeller because of the governor's building program. Rockefeller stood with Gleason while the labor leader said he would do all he could to inspire support for the governor from the 42,000 longshoremen's union members.

Rockefeller said assertions by Arthur Goldberg, one of the two Democratic gubernatorial contenders in the June 23 primary, that some labor unions were abandoning the governor were "wishful thinking."

Action among other candidates:

— Goldberg, a former U.S. Supreme Court justice, said a bill being considered by Congress to deny bail to defendants considered dangerous by a judge is unconstitutional and "alien to the American tradition."

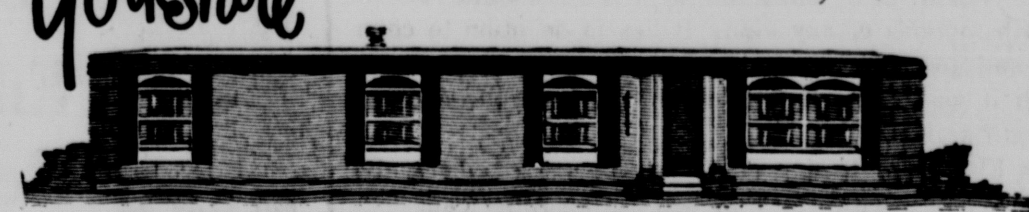

— Theodore C. Sorensen, a Democratic contender for the U.S. Senate, called for a federal youth opportunity act to aid city administrations and private organizations in finding summer employment for urban youths. Communications Commission — Rep. Richard M. McCarthy stating he is being denied another Democratic Senate "equal access" to the voters.

National Flag Day

Sunday, June 14, is Flag Day. The chief purpose of this occasion is to openly and publicly demonstrate our devotion to the national emblem. All citizens should participate in its observance by displaying The Flag prominently and reverently.

It is good for us to think about our flag and remember the great sacrifices and suffering which have been undergone by brave men to keep it flying. It is well to remember that The Flag represents every walk of life, every religion and every racial background in our country.

The purpose of National Flag Day is formally defined as the inculcation of the meaning of true Americanism into the minds and hearts of our citizens. And true Americanism has nothing to do with liberalism or conservatism, with one's political or economic beliefs or with factions of any kind. It lies in devotion to country, and to those eternal principles of freedom upon which it was founded and which are the source of its strength and greatness.

On Flag Day, display The Flag, show your colors. Be proud to say it with The Flag—"I am an American."

Every time a misguided youth steps on The Flag, or tears or burns it, he is making many more flag lovers. Most of us take The Flag for granted until it is mutilated, and then we are aroused to display and defend it.

Someone has said that the flag is your "mother and father, your pride and joy, your dream, your hope, your faith." It is your country and your government.

There is no point to a Flag Day without flags. Let the flag fly high so all will know, though we differ on problems and issues, that we revere it and revere all for which it stands.

Driving Force for Peace

Senator William Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat, is noted for his harsh criticism of President Nixon's war and economic policies. But in a commencement address at Milton College in Wisconsin, Proxmire said demeaning attacks on the President "enfeeble an institution that holds this country of ours together—that gives us the prime driving force we have as a nation in achieving peace in the world."

In addition, Proxmire hailed Nixon's "peace-directed reversal of the war escalation policy of the previous administration and a great policy for peace in the Nixon doctrine at Guam, which will permit us to reduce our overall military force by one million men. It will help end the draft. It will keep us out of future wars."

Commencement addresses brought other surprises. Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York deplored the excesses of the forces of revolution and repression and urged the formation of a new political center party, or commitment to reconstruct the country through reasonable means. Speaking at Williams College in Massachusetts, Lindsay asserted "The revolutionary defiles the flag and the reactionary defies it. Both offend reason and common sense."

The head of the New York State commission on campus unrest, Assemblyman Charles Henderson, told graduates of Alfred University in New York that the right to dissent should not be constructed as a right to riot or burn by "a radical, permanent, floating mob." He pleaded, "We must recognize the sincerity, honesty, loyalty and concern the majority of students have for the world in which they live." He condemned acts of students and faculty who "under the guise of free speech infringe on the rights of others."

These and many more commencement speakers did not cater to the dissenting youth. They called it like it is, to the cheers of the student majority.

Beware of Bicycles

Schools throughout this area will close in the next two weeks and it is safe to anticipate a sharp rise in bicycle riding and an increase in the number of children injured in bicycle accidents.

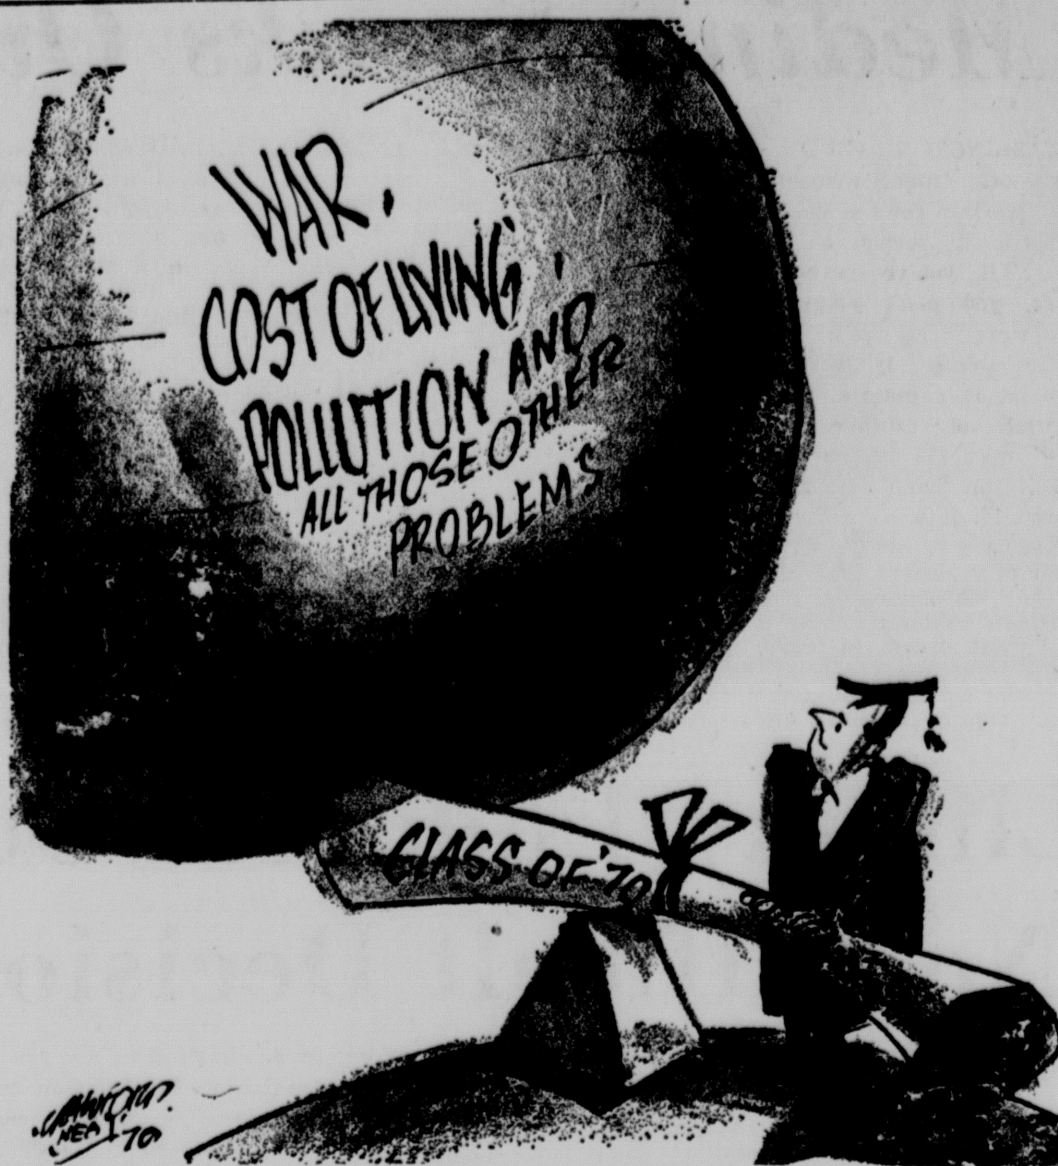

If young bicyclists and motor vehicle operators would use a little common sense, these accidents could be reduced greatly.

More and more children are finding their bicycles a medium for exercise and play. Thus there is a multiplication of hazards which motorists have the best of reasons to consider and avoid.

It is the responsibility of parents to teach their children traffic rules and safety: riding on the right side of the highway, obeying the same traffic laws as motorists—stop signals, signal lights.

Bicyclists also should be instructed to "drive defensively"—the same as motorists. They should be prepared for the careless driver who will swerve too close to them.

A new 20-year treaty of friendship guarantees that the Soviet Union may intervene in Czechoslovakia to "guarantee" its freedom, as it did when it invaded and ended the tentative reform regime of a couple of years ago. The Soviet-installed Czech government signed for their unhappy country.

"Give Me a Place to Stand and I Will Move the World!"

David Lawrence Says Employment Problem Is People's Greatest Concern

WASHINGTON — The summer of 1970 will probably be remembered as one of the strangest in political history. The month of June is supposed to decide whether all the troops will be out of Cambodia. But, oddly enough, the questions that are bothering members of Congress who are up for election this autumn are not so much related to the Vietnam War as to the economic situation that is developing.

As far as the war is concerned, 50,000 troops are to be withdrawn from Vietnam by October, and assurances have been given that hardly any more youths will be drafted to go to Vietnam. So the political pressure on that subject is not likely to be as intense as might be imagined.

What is really causing the most concern is the employment problem, particularly how the younger generation is going to get jobs this summer. The Government is making available funds in various ways to help in the creation of opportunities for work. It is not merely the students who will be seeking jobs but a lot of experienced workers who have been laid off in recent weeks. The total unemployment in the United States now exceeds 4,000,000.

The Secretary of the Treasury, David M. Kennedy, said on Wednesday that he doesn't see any signs that the current slump will deepen into a severe recession. He declares that "after a difficult 18 months of effort, we have the objective of our economic policies well within our grasp." This may be understood by the economists, but it is hardly an assurance to the working class of the country who have for some time been hearing rumors of possible lay-offs.

Secretary Kennedy asserts that the economy is strong, and that there are few indications the decline in production will go much farther. The administration has not revealed any plans for relaxing its efforts to control inflation.

So far as the general public is concerned, it has little understanding of what is really going on in the economy. Statistics are meaningful perhaps to the economists, but not to the average person.

Arthur Okun, who was Chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, said in an article just published that he would not be "alarmed" if Congress eased up a bit on the brakes and rejected the President's request for a 1.5 billion-dollar-a-year tax on lead used in gasoline. Other predictions are being made as to what Congress will do about any tax increase in the present state of the economy. In fact, the impression on Capitol Hill is that Congress is not going to increase the expenses of the taxpayer if it can be avoided. President Nixon, however, said last month he would request the tax increase next January. Six months is a long way off in politics.

Members of Congress who go back and forth nowadays to their districts and keep in touch with the attitude of the voters find considerable uneasiness and concern about a possible recession that might increase the unemployment figures. But, broadly speaking, the economy is in a relatively affluent position. If the elections were held in the current month, the party in power would benefit.

Many of the politicians have been overestimating the importance of the Vietnam issue. They have thought that this would be paramount with the voters. But there is evidence that ever since the troop withdrawal began and further reduction of our Armed Forces was announced, the Vietnam issue has been diminished in political significance. This is because the idea now implanted generally is that fewer Americans will be going to Vietnam, so the draft will not, of course, be as much of a factor as it has been.

If the United States can avoid a deep recession between now and November, the Nixon Administration may pull through with a substantial number of Republicans winning in both Houses of Congress. A sudden downturn in the economic curve, however, would immediately affect the political situation unfavorably for the Administration. It may be anticipated, therefore, that between now and the autumn the administration will do its utmost to maintain a higher level of employment and find more jobs for the younger generation.

Pete Rozelle Ignores Secret Deal for Philadelphia Eagles

WASHINGTON — The professional football commissioner, Pete Rozelle, apparently is as lenient with owners as he is strict with players.

He forced Joe Namath, star quarterback for the New York Jets, to sell his one-half interest in a Manhattan bar and restaurant because gamblers patronized the place.

But Rozelle has taken no notice of Leonard Tose, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, who has bet fabulous sums on gin rummy games and golf matches.

Rozelle also has ignored at least seven hidden partners who helped Tose raise the $16,155,000 needed to buy the Eagles, despite an explicit rule that the football commissioner should investigate the new owners of a team.

Witnesses who have told this column they're willing to testify in court about Tose's breathtaking betting, emphasized that he is in no way connected with underworld gamblers.

"Tose will bet $10,000 on a gin game or $11,000 on golf. And he'll hand out $100 tips," said one informant. "But he gambles strictly for himself, not with the Mafia."

Hidden Partners

When a tycoon Jerry Wolman's financial empire collapsed and the Eagles were sold out from under him last year, Tose bought the franchise in his own name and left his partners' names out of the deal.

One of the partners, John Connelly, president of Crown Cork and Seal, paid a private call upon Rozelle to plead for a study of the Eagles' ownership that would give the partnership formal standing.

But Rozelle took a see-no-evil, hear-no-evil attitude. When he refused to act, some of the partners filed suit charging Tose with "fraud" and "misappropriation." They held as evidence two cancelled checks totalling $1,650,000, which Connelly wrote out to Tose for a share of the football team.

The partners allege that Tose reaped tax benefits and other "material gain" from the Eagles although they had agreed not to take a penny out of the profits until an $8 million bank loan was paid off.

Tose, a smooth-talking truck magnate, refused to comment on the case, explaining that he was under court order to remain silent. He said the order covered our questions about his gambling, although there is no mention of his betting in the lawsuit.

"I think," he said, "I'm going to end this conversation right now." And he cut off the interview.

Comedy and Tragedy

Television comics Imogene Coca and Louis Nye have let a pharmaceutical firm use their laughing faces in an advertising campaign for a drug designed to lift the spirits of the depressed.

There's nothing funny, however, about the drug, "Ritalin." The Food and Drug Administration is about to require that it carry a strict new warning against dangerous side effects.

In Sweden, the drug is banned altogether. Miss Coca is shown in full color ads with an 18-tooth smile. Nye beats a drum in a clown costume for "Ritalin" while Miss Coca poses as a jolly Valkyrie made glad, presumably, by the pills.

The ads tell how "Ritalin" brightens moods and kindles enthusiasm. Its maker, CIBA Pharmaceuticals, has reaped fat profits from the drug. But in the tiny print on the back of the ads are warnings against anxiety, tension, nausea, headaches, rash and even rare cases of psychotic behavior and addiction "in emotionally unstable persons."

The ominous warning will be stiffened further by the FDA with CIBA's consent. In Sweden, the Journal of the Swedish Medical Association wrote that "Ritalin" has "contributed to the spread of narcotics addiction."

The Journal says the polyanna ads raise "the question of the drug company's ethics and sense of responsibility." It said CIBA won't change its happytime policy until "the U.S. authorities react—when abuse becomes acute in the U.S.A."

Footnote: This column could obtain no comment from Miss Coca or Mr. Nye. CIBA said "Ritalin" is not addictive, although in rare cases it brings on psychological dependence.

FAA Deception

It looks as if FAA Administrator John Shaffer deceived a Senate Committee last month when he testified he had not seen a critical report before lifting the ban on big, 727 stretch jets at Washington's National airport.

The controversial study was made by Harry F. Bolting, then the fiscal management chief of the FAA's Bureau of National Capitol Airports. Bolting has since moved from his FAA job to the Los Angeles Post Office.

Allowing the stretch jets to land at National, the report claimed, would be not only a multi-million-dollar "bonanza" for air lines, but an "immeasurable loss" to the government, taxpayers and the airport.

Shaffer has repeatedly assured Senators that the stretch jets would not be allowed at National. But during the controller's sick-in, he lifted the ban, then quietly continued the arrangement after the sick-in was over.

Only last month, Shaffer told Senators "this report never reached me," and bucked questions to James T. Murphy, deputy director of the Bureau of National Capitol Airports.

But Bolting, the report's author, later admitted privately the report had gone to Shaffer and had caused quite a furor in the department.

The Government Accounting Office investigated and backed up his story. When Shaffer learned that his apparent lie was about to backfire, he shot off a letter to Senator William Spong, Jr. D-Va.

Shaffer no longer insisted the report "never reached me." Instead, he explained that the Senators had asked him about a December draft, and that he had seen a January version.

A decade ago, a couple of British sportscasters drew up a skimpy list of world records to settle pub brawls. The notion turned out to be so valuable that Guinness a firm which manufactures a potable called stout, published the Book of World Records.

Flushed with success, the authors, Norris and Ross McWhirter, checked more and more world records. The 9th hard cover edition has just arrived from Sterling Publishing Company. Have a listen:

The shortest adult was a 19-year-old Dutch girl who was 23.2 inches tall and weighed 9 pounds. The tallest is Dolores Ann Pullard, 7 feet 9 1/2 inches. The heaviest man was Robert E. Hughes of Monticello, Illinois. He weighed 1,069 pounds in 1958. Very old people lie about their age, but it is provable that the Christian J. Drackenborg of Aarhus, Denmark, lived 145 years and 326 days.

The wife who had the most children is a Russian named Mrs. Fyodor Vassiliot, who gave birth to 69 babies in 27 confinements. The only case of octuplets was 4 boys and 4 girls, born between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. on March 10, 1967. Mrs. Teresa Lopez De Sepulveda, 21, was the mother. All eight died within 14 hours.

The longest hair was the possession of a Hindu monk named Swami Pandarasannadhi—26 feet. Pain travels from site to brain at 265 miles per hour. Dr. Robert Liston of Scotland tried to establish a world record for sawing off the limb of a patient. He did it in 33 seconds and his assistant lost 3 fingers. The oldest known horse was Topolino, who belonged to the Italian army. He died at the age of 51.

The male hummingbird weighs 1/18th of an ounce. The largest fish is the whale shark. One was found off Cape Town 53 feet long weighing 70,000 pounds. Fishermen argue about speed, but the sailfish and the wahoo can catch anything that swims. A sailfish in the Florida straits was clocked at 68 miles per hour.

A ten foot electric eel can discharge 650 volts at one ampere and kill a man 20 feet distant. The greatest measurable swarm of locusts blackened the sky over the Red Sea for 2,000 square miles. Scientists estimate that there were 250 billions flying in the group.

The most tragic earthquake occurred in Shensi Province China, Jan. 23, 1956, when 830,000 persons were killed within a few minutes. The earth is not perfectly round. It is flat at the North and South Poles by 26 1/2 miles. The earth weighs 6 1/2 septillion tons and magnetizes 2,240 tons of additional cosmic dust every day.

The deepest part of any ocean is the Marianas Trench in the Pacific. From surface to bottom is 36,198 feet. A one pound steel ball, dropped from a ship, required 63 minutes to hit bottom. The tallest undersea mountain is near Samoa. It rises like a cone 28,500 feet from the bottom of the sea and is still 1,200 feet below the surface.

The highest wave was recorded by USS Ramapo, steaming east of the Philippines Feb. 6, 1933. It was computed to be 112 feet from crest to trough. Only 29.4 percent of the earth is composed of land. The coldest place is Verkhoyansk, Siberia—94 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. The hottest is San Luis Potosi, Mexico—136.4 degrees Fahrenheit. That figure was recorded in the shade.

The driest place in the world is Calama, Chile. Records claim it has never rained there. Twenty-four inches of rain fell at Oxford, England in 12 minutes on May 31, 1682. The core, or active part of a bolt of lightning is less than a half inch thick.

The earth races around the sun at a speed of 66,690 miles per hour. One complete orbit amounts to 584,000,000 miles.

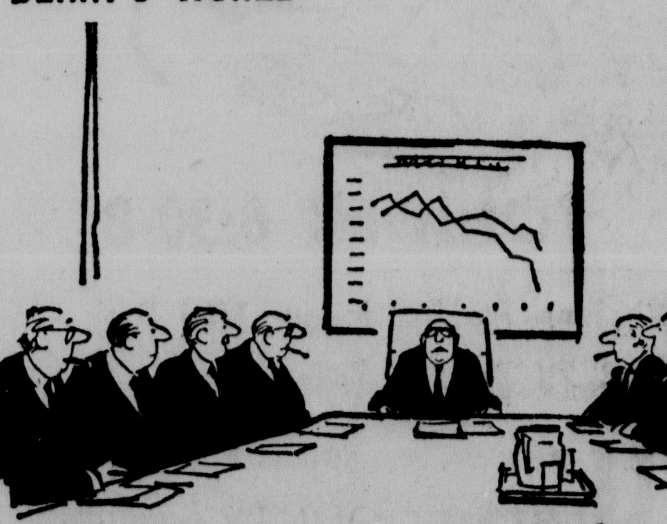

Our whole solar system, sun, earth and other planets, is gravitating toward the star Vega at 612,000 miles per hour. One day on Venus—from dawn to dawn—amounts to 243 of our days. The biggest star is Epsilon Aurigae B, with a diameter of 2,500 million miles.

The costliest perfume is Adoration, manufactured in Cadiz, Spain. It retails at $185 per half ounce. The strongest drink is Polish vodka, 194 proof. Neil Armstrong made the greatest human achievement when he set foot on the moon. Greatest speed in a plane was 2,905 m.p.h. set by Major Robert M. White in an X-15, Feb. 7, 1961.

At Alamogordo, New Mexico, Lt. Col. John P. Stapp boarded a sled on rails, fired rockets, and went from a standing start to 632 miles per hour within 5 seconds. His eyes hemorrhaged and he was partially blind for 12 weeks. A Chinese steward, Poon Lin, was aboard S.S. Ben Lomond when it was torpedoed off the Azores on Nov. 23, 1943. He was picked up alone 133 days later on a raft off Salinas, Brazil.

James and Sarah Burgess lived to celebrate their 82nd wedding anniversary in London, 1965. Like to tie it?

Alexander Kerensky Dies, Was Premier of Russia

NEW YORK (UPI)—For nearly four turbulent months in 1917, Alexander Kerensky, as premier of Russia, tried and failed to establish a democracy in his homeland. The nearly forgotten contemporary of Lenin and Stalin died Thursday at 89 at St. Luke's Hospital.

To those Socialist purists who dreamed that the once "ablest man in Russia" might have brought to that country had been able to carry through his methods of needed reform, he remained a hero.

As it was, it was the fate of Kerensky to live more than the last 50 years of his life in exile, watching helplessly as his ideas of freedom and prosperity for all were transformed, after the Bolshevik Revolution, into dictatorship and tyranny.

Kerensky, who had lived in the United States since 1940, succumbed to a heart disease. He had entered the hospital six weeks ago after breaking an elbow in a fall and had recuperated from cancer surgery 18 months ago.

17-Year Locusts Make Appearance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The so-called 17-year locusts have emerged from their underground burrows in various parts of the nation to drum their familiar mating song through another summer.

A survey showed today the outbreak of the insects, which are actually misnamed periodic cicadas, has primarily occurred in wooded areas of the East and Middle West.

Particularly heavy concentrations were reported only in certain areas of Indiana. Along Fall Creek in northeast Indianapolis the insects were almost as thick as swarming bees and the noise of the incessantly drummed love songs was deafening.

Although the cicadas generally cause little damage to plant life, they have cut through the branches of many maple, mulberry and fruit trees in the Fall Creek area.

The cicadas caused slight damage to fruit trees in northeastern West Virginia.

In Minneapolis, entomologists said the outbreak was not severe and they were not recommending anything for controlling the insects.

Columbus, Ohio, and many other areas in the Midwest had outbreaks of the bugs, but none of the outbreaks were reported to be troublesome.

A spokesman for the New York State Conservation Department said the state has escaped a major infestation this year. He said the insects have not generally been causing problems.

"They don't defoliate like the Biblical locusts which are grasshoppers," he said. "Most damage by cicadas is done by females who slit branches on fruit trees to lay eggs. The young hatch in the tree and then fall to the ground and bury themselves for 17 years."

Dr. Ray Janes, entomologist at Michigan State University, said the cicada outbreak in the Detroit area has been "very mild." He said Michigan is not as susceptible as some other states to the insects because a lot of forest land has been cut since 1953.

There were outbreaks in North Carolina and some damage reported to apple orchards. There was little noise from the cicadas in Washington, D.C., but heavier outbreaks occurred in the suburban areas. One suburban dweller described the noise as "like waking up in the morning in a roller skating rink."

Pennsylvania entomologists reported cicadas in 40 of 67 counties.

Hurt in Bike Mishap

KINGSTON Judith Ann Hotaling, 22, of 37 Hanratty Street, was injured at 6:25 p.m. Wednesday, when the bicycle she was riding struck a fence at the bottom of the Hanratty hill at Murray Street, according to police.

The young woman was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service. She was admitted for treatment of multiple lacerations of the face, shoulders and right leg. Police said the bicycle was going south when the rider failed to negotiate a turn and hit the fence.

Weddings Announced Recently to The Freeman

MRS. WILLIAM WINFIELD WILBER
(ORF Photo)

Miss Teresa Jane Fenton, 6919 East 15th Place, Tulsa, Okla., daughter of Mrs. Doris Fenton, 3505 East 70th Place, Tulsa, Okla., became the bride of William Winfield Wilber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wilber, 157 Sherry Lane, Kingston, on Saturday, June 6 at Christ the King Catholic Church, Tulsa, Okla. The Rev. Steve Cude celebrated the Nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring ceremony. Yolanda Segovia, organist, accompanied Susan Moore who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of daisies and hydrangeas decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a white gown, styled with a lace applique bodice over a sheer-on-satin skirt and train. A bow headpiece held her fingertip veil and she carried daisies and yellow roses.

Mrs. Glen Alvarez, and Miss Jacque Fenton, sister of the bride, Tulsa, Okla., served as matron and maid of honor, respectively. Attendants were the Misses Paula Fenton, sister of the bride, Tulsa, Okla.; Jane Wilber, sister of the bridegroom, Kingston; Cindy Brown, and Maggie Neaves, both of Tulsa, Okla. All attendants wore yellow crepe gowns and bow headpieces. They carried white daisies.

PFC Robert Wilber served as best man for his brother.

Ushers were Bart Williams, Kingston; Don Lucas, Bill Bullard, Bruce Scott, and Ken Farley, all University of Oklahoma students.

A reception for 125 guests was held at Christ the King Church hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilber attend the University of Oklahoma. The bride is a sophomore and her husband is a senior.

The couple went on a wedding trip to New York City and will spend the summer in Kingston. They will return to the University of Oklahoma to finish their education.

Miss Virginia Mae Burger, 129 Stephan Street, Kingston, daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Guernsey Burger Jr. of Kingston, became the bride of Donald Edwin Burnett, son of Mrs. William Roe, RD 2, Box 19, Kingston, and the late Fred Burnett, on Sunday, May 31, at Reformed Church of the Comforter, Kingston.

The Rev. John W. Mongin, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Larry Williams, cousin of the bride, provided traditional wedding selections. Mrs. Anita Aird, another cousin of the bride, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The altar was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza gown. The empire waistline, high neck and cuffs were circled with ribboned Venise lace with Venise motifs enhancing the bodice and Bishop sleeves. The chapel train was also outlined with ribbon Venise lace. A Venise petal cap held her tiered French illusion veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of white bridal roses, pink roses, white pompons, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Stanley Fletcher, Melissa Road, Sawkill, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor in a blush pink chiffon gown in the empire styling with Venise lace forming a shirtdress effect and trimming the Mao collar and cuffs of the Bishop sleeves. She wore a streamer Dior bow to match and carried a colonial bouquet of light and dark pink carnations, pink and yellow roses and yellow streamers.

Attendants were Miss Bonnie Dowling, New Paltz; Mrs. Robert Burnett, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Saratoga; and Mrs. Fred Burnett, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Kingston. Their lavender gowns and headpieces were styled identically to that of the matron of honor's and they carried colonial bouquets of light and dark pink carnations and pink roses.

Miss Jill Burnett, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Kathy Millham, cousin of the bride, served as junior bridesmaids. Their gowns were styled similarly to those of the other attendants' and they carried small nosegays of light and dark carnations.

Fred Burnett, brother of the bridegroom, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were Robert Burnett, brother of the bridegroom, Saratoga; Stanley Fletcher, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Sawkill; and John Millham, cousin of the bride, Kingston. Randy Millham, cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer.

A lawn reception for 150 guests was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Swart, Kingston.

The bride, a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School, has been employed at IBM, Kingston, and has been transferred to a branch office in Syracuse.

Her husband, also a 1968 Kingston High School graduate, will be graduated this month from Ulster County Community College. In September, he will enter the College of Forestry at Syracuse University where he will major in landscape architecture.

Upon returning from their wedding trip, they will reside in Syracuse.

Rizzo - Bock Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Rizzo of 1640 Liberty Street, Braintree, Mass. announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Wayne Bock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bock of 7 Bond Street, Kingston.

The bride-elect attended Archbishop Williams High School, Braintree, Mass. and Aquinas Junior College of Business, Milton, Mass. She is employed by Northeastern University, Boston, Mass., as a secretary in the College of Engineering.

Her fiancé, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College, is on military leave from IBM where he is employed in Production Control. He is serving in the U.S. navy stationed at Lakehurst, N.J.

An October 31 wedding is planned.

A Talk to Youth Concerning Drugs

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

I often receive letters which are far removed from the realm of etiquette. Some ask about family problems; others pose legal or religious questions. I generally answer by explaining that my subject is etiquette and that I am referring the letter to an authority in the field who might be more qualified to help. There are others, however, not so easily answered which are quite obviously not sincere requests for information, but attempts to embarrass me, discredit me, or "put me on." Take, for example, the following letter:

Dear Mrs. Post:

Your latest Pocketbook of Etiquette is one of the greatest and most authoritative works on the subject that I have ever read. However, I failed to find any mention of one particular facet of proper etiquette. When smoking pot is it proper to crook the little finger? Also to whom should the first take go? Is it within the realm of good taste to serve "cut" grass as a surprise?

What is the proper introduction to be used when meeting a police officer for the first time during a formal or informal "bust"?

How simple it would be to answer each of his questions equally tongue-in-cheek by saying, "You don't crook your little finger while you smoke tobacco, why do it smoking pot?" "Don't you know ladies are always served first?" "Certainly serve 'cut' grass if you want your friends to call you a cheapskate," or other flippant advice in the same vein. Possibly, I should simply reply quite seriously and refer him to the nearest local or federal agency dealing with drugs.

Unfortunately the pros and cons of marijuana smoking are so much on every parent's mind today that there is no more room for such answers than there is for sweeping the questions under the rug.

A great number of our younger generation—and in fact many who are not so young—compare marijuana smoking with the use of alcohol and insist that the habit is neither as harmful nor as addictive as drinking. What can the average parent say in reply, particularly if he occasionally drinks alcohol in one form or another himself?

I am, I believe, an average parent. But I am also professionally involved in an attempt to encourage youngsters to set certain standards of behavior for themselves. Parents must help their children achieve that goal, not only by setting an example, but by retaining open communications and an atmosphere of mutual trust. It is essential to initiate any talk about drugs without accusation or prying. No youngster will ever feel leveling if he thinks he is condemned before he starts.

I, as a layman, cannot stop drug traffic nor even stop youngsters from experimenting with pot. I can only suggest certain areas of discussion which your child may or may not have considered. If he or she has respect for your judgment and if you are willing to listen to and discuss his arguments with an open mind, it is possible that some of the following points may influence his decision on whether he "turns on" or not. First of all, the sale, use or possession of marijuana is against the law, and the law at present imposes severe penalties even for those who are merely in the company of actual offenders.

Personally, I am deeply disturbed by laws which fail to differentiate between marijuana and hard drugs such as heroin. Not that I approve of marijuana or wish to see its use increase—far from it! What concerns me is that many young people will fail to recognize the totally different problems that arise from the use of each drug. The legal implication is that all drugs are equally evil, and these young people are led to feel that what is true of one is true of the other.

Therefore, it should follow that when the hideous results they have been taught to expect from smoking grass do not—apparently, at least—materialize, neither will they appear after shooting "H". Such an attitude is a great boon to the pusher who would convert a pot smoker into the heroin addict. A parent's "Don't do it, you're breaking the law" might possibly deter some, but others will need more compelling reasons than a law which makes so little sense.

Second, in purchasing marijuana, one does not have the protection of legal control over the quality of the product. Unlike alcohol which is bottled in bond under government supervision, marijuana is distributed illegally with none of the regulations that would otherwise be applicable to this type of narcotic. "Cut" or diluted grass may harm only your pocketbook, but an impure or contaminated batch can be very dangerous.

Third, there are as many different reactions to marijuana as individuals who smoke it. While it seems fairly well established that it does not create a physical addiction, certain personalities are very susceptible to psychological "mental" addiction. Addition to any such "crutch"—including alcohol—destroys ambition, concern and involvement with anything except the procurement and enjoyment of the drug. This is admitted by even the most pro-marijuana authorities. And until one tries pot he cannot know what his reactions will be. Before a youngster starts, he should be made aware of this and urged to consider the risk involved.

Fourth, even though marijuana itself does not lead to other drugs, the circumstances under which it is purchased and used may do so. Association with pushers and with other drug users automatically occurs if one turns on frequently. It takes a strong character and a firm will to resist the urgings to experiment.

Fifth, those who do not have adverse reactions to marijuana but truly "turn on" experience a feeling of euphoria, of release, and of a relaxing of inhibitions. The corollary to this is inevitably some loss of self-control. The younger generation claims to be totally disgusted with over-indulgence in alcohol which leads to the same thing. Why, if they object to the loss of judgment and control in a drunk, should they approve it in someone high on pot? If they are convinced the "establishment" has made such a mess of things, will it not take young adults who can see more clearly to straighten it out? It would seem to me that what is needed is a generation which has the strength to stand on its own feet, without the necessity of a crutch at all, whether it be alcohol or marijuana.

Linda Lee Terpening Weds Bruce J. Ortman Here

Old Dutch Church in Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Miss Linda Lee Terpening, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erynes Ambrose Terpening of Rifton, and Bruce John Ortman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Arthur Ortman, Paterson, N.J. on Thursday, May 28.

The Rev. Dan Potter, uncle of the bride, executive director of New York Council of Churches, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

assisted by the Rev. George Emmitt of New Paltz Church of the Nazarene. Organist Ken White accompanied Mrs. Sue Reed who sang traditional wedding selections. Pink candles and a large floral arrangement, given by Mr. and Mrs. Miller of New Jersey, decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a white, floor length, Irish linen gown styled with an empress waistline, Mandarin collar and three-quarter length sleeves. A crown of pearls held her elbow length veil and she carried a lace covered Bible with pink rosebuds, baby's breath and pink ribbon streamers.

Miss Pamela Jean McCaffery of Rifton, niece of the bride, was maid of honor in a floor length pink satin gown, fashioned with an empress waistline and featuring an olive green sash and pink scalloped cape. She wore a single pink flower in her hair and carried olive green candle with pink ribbon.

Miss Mary Lou Terpening, cousin of the bride, Ulster Park, was bridesmaid. Her gown and flowers were identical to that of the honor attendant's.

Kenneth Ortman of Paterson, N.J. was best man for his brother. Ushers were Leslie A. Terpening, Steven J. Terpening, both of Rifton; and Robert J. Leghorn, St. Remy,

MRS. BRUCE J. ORTMAN
all cousins of the bride.
Michael Boyd Terpening.

another cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer.

A reception for 150 guests was held at Old Dutch Church reception hall in Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Clayton Lakes, Va., the bride chose a long sleeved white ruffled blouse, blue and white striped bell-bottom slacks, white accessories and a baby rose corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School and Richard The First School of Beauty Culture. She was formerly manager of Granit Hotel Beauty Salon.

Her husband, an alumnus of Paterson Technical and vocational High School, is now employed as a machinist at Accurate Bronze Bearing Company in Paterson, N.J.

Mr. and Mrs. Ortman will reside at Rifton.

Unexpected Drop in Enlistments May Hinder Cutting of Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unexpected drop in Army enlistments last month could herald trouble for Pentagon hopes of cutting the draft to as low as 150,000 men this year. The Army said enlistments in May totaled 7,629—nearly 3,500 below the month's objective. Officials were unable to explain the drop, except to note a sharp upturn in antiwar demonstrations during May as a result of the U.S. drive into Cambodia.

Defense officials indicated they will pay close attention to the trend in enlistments this month and next—when the end of school traditionally brings more volunteers—in hopes the situation rights itself. Any deficit in enlistments is made up by increasing draft calls in future months.

The Pentagon Thursday announced a July draft call of 15,000 young men for the Army. Sources said this call would have been lower were it not for the unanticipated fall off in last month's enlistments.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has said draft inductions this year hopefully will fall as low as 150,000 men, compared with nearly double that, 290,000, in 1969.

Defense authorities are now saying the 1970 draft total probably will not drop that low and the Pentagon has started hedging somewhat on Laird's forecast, using an expected range of between 150,000 and 180,000.

If the enlistment situation gets back on the predicted track, draft calls could go down significantly in the last five months of 1970.

Quotas already announced for the first seven months of the year total 114,500. This leaves a balance of less than 36,000 to reach the 150,000 mark and nearly 66,800 if total inductions for the year climb to 180,000.

This would work out to monthly draft quotas as low as 7,000 plus from August through December—unless voluntary enlistments fail to recover their momentum.

With elections this fall, the Nixon administration would like to repeat its action of last year when it eliminated all drafting in November and December and concentrated the allotment for the last three months of 1969 in October.

The general level of draft calls this year is running well below those in most of 1969 because the administration has been cutting the size of the U.S. armed forces.

Total U.S. armed strength now stands at a little over 3.1 million men, some 400,000 men below the Vietnam war peak reached two years ago.

Laird hopes to cut the forces by another 600,000 men over the next two years.

Letter Carrier Meeting Ends In Big Brawl

NEW YORK (AP) — Members of the letter carriers' local that spearheaded the March postal strike have voted narrowly to put off the decision on renewing the walkout until July 1.

The move came in a raucous meeting Thursday that ended with dissidents who wanted an immediate strike storming the speakers' platform in an attempt to assault the union leader, Gus Johnson.

Police rescued Johnson, president of the 6,000-member Branch 36 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, and led him down a fire escape as brawling broke out in the seventh-floor meeting room.

Branch 36, representing carriers in Manhattan and the Bronx, struck March 18, and the walkout quickly snowballed into the first nationwide postal strike in U.S. history.

The walkout ended a week later when the postal unions and the Nixon administration negotiated a 6 per cent pay raise, since enacted by Congress.

However, an additional 8 per cent increase is part of a postal reform bill that is still bogged down in Congress, and union militants are upset over the delay.

The resolution voted on at Thursday night's meeting proposed that "unless bills pass both houses of Congress by July 1, that on July 1 from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. a machine ballot vote be conducted to determine whether to go out on strike at 12:01 a.m. July 6."

The voice vote was so nearly even that Johnson asked those in favor and those against to line up on either side of the room. When he announced the resolution had passed, the rush for the stage began.

Amnesty Ends at Hobart With Arrest of 4 Students

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP) — Amnesty ended at Hobart College Thursday as four students were arrested on charges stemming from a confrontation last week between students and police.

Officers, describing the four as "well-known activists," booked them on charges of second-degree riot and obstructing governmental administration.

Students were promised complete amnesty following the confrontation in return for the release of several surrounded city police and Ontario County deputy sheriffs. The county board of supervisors revoked the amnesty pledge Tuesday.

Arrested were: Rafael Martinez, 37, of New York City, Martinez was the chief student spokesman in negotiations that ended the confrontation. He is also the plaintiff in a harassment complaint against a police undercover agent.

Sean Campbell, 22, of St. Petersburg, Fla. Campus sources said Campbell was an organizer of a student antiwar strike at Hobart last month.

Bruce L. Davis, 20, son of a U.S. diplomat stationed in Jerusalem.

J. Reeve Bright, 21, of Rosemont, Pa.

More Mortgages

NEW YORK (AP) — Total loans on real estate mortgages in April were the highest in nearly a year—$272.4 million—says the Savings Banks Association of New York State.

The mortgage loans went up despite a relatively small increase of $29.3 million in gross assets of the savings banks. The gross assets were $43.3 billion, the association reported.

Fish Watching

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Shellfish, finfish, and algae are being scrutinized in 28 fiberglass "sea-tables" at a new State Conservation Department research facility on Long Island.

The sea-tables at the Flax Pond Marine Research Laboratory permit scientists to vary salt and fresh water conditions as they study factors influencing commercial and sport fishing.

HARDHAT TIPPER — Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme gets ready to tip a construction worker's hardhat for photographers in New York City as he left his hotel for home following an eight-day unofficial visit to the United States. The hardhat, which has become symbolic of workers' opposition to antiwar liberals, was given to Palme by Swedish correspondents covering his trip as a good-natured gesture. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

1,500 Affected By Blackouts Near Border

TICONDEROGA, N.Y. (UPI) — Scattered blackouts affected a total of about 1,500 Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. customers Thursday night along New York's northeastern border.

A company spokesman said the outages were caused by tree limbs falling across power lines during a violent rain and wind storm.

For some of the customers it was the second straight night of power problems. Wednesday evening, a main power line fell near Whitehall and knocked out power for more than nine hours to 9,000 customers.

On both nights, radio station WIPS was knocked off the air. Moses Luddington Hospital in Ticonderoga had to use its auxiliary power the first night but experienced no trouble the next day.

The power company spokesman said shortages were experienced from about 4 p.m. on Thursday, when the storm hit, until late in the evening. Affected areas included portions of Ticonderoga, Crown Point, Putnam, Hague, and as far west as Indian Lake in Hamilton County, the spokesman said.

Protests and Chamber Resignations in New Paltz

By LYNN MULVANEY

NEW PALTZ Howls of protest over so-called organizational support of Dr. John J. Neumaier and his position as president of the State University College at New Paltz have gone up from a large number of Chamber of Commerce members as well as members of the Study Club of New Paltz.

A telegram sent to Chancellor Samuel Gould of the State Education Department by members of the New Paltz Chamber said: "A large number of New Paltz Chamber of Commerce members are voicing objection to Chamber support of Dr. Neumaier at a meeting last week and resent the implication that the vote was unanimous. The Chamber president (Philip Schunk) is a paid advisor to Dr. Neumaier."

According to a former Chamber officer, several resignations have been received by members following the meeting at which only 16 out of 73 members were present. With Dr. Neumaier in attendance a voice vote was taken with five members abstaining.

The resolution to support Dr. Neumaier was made by Richard Lent, it was learned.

Those Chamber members opposed to the reporting of a unanimous vote of confidence said they were not informed in advance that Dr. Neumaier would be present at the meeting or that such a vital decision was to be made. One member said that if this information had been available to members they would have made a point of attending and "there would have been a complete reversal of sentiment."

"Embarrassment" was reportedly felt by a number of Study Club members when, at the club's annual luncheon meeting at Williams Lake attended by about 90 persons, the subject of Dr. Neumaier's conduct was "unexpectedly" brought to the floor by Mrs. Richard Lent, who, like her husband sought endorsement for the college president.

According to a number of members, eight hands were raised in favor of Neumaier while about 60 hands went up "like corks from a bottle" against the endorsement. Others abstained.

Objection to the procedure was voiced by members who felt that the subject had no right to be brought out at a public place and that no permission had been given beforehand for such a proposal and did not fit in with the club's purpose.

The club, formed in 1904, was conceived as a means of keeping the women at home abreast of worldly and literary events. Today it is more of a service and social club and is "non-political," taking no positions on political issues, according to one of its members.

Disorders on the New Paltz campus and how they were handled has also been of great concern to the Ulster County American Legion, which at its annual convention in Highland, passed a resolution calling for Chancellor S. Gould to make public findings following the disorders and fires on campus.

The resolution requests that Chancellor Gould publicize the findings of the FBI and BCI investigations in the matter.

It further states that as a result of the investigation any administrator, faculty member or student that is found guilty of neglect of duty be dismissed and if an act of unlawfulness was performed the person should be prosecuted.

In adopting the resolution, the 14 posts of the county expressed dissatisfaction with Dr. Neumaier.

Immediate Action Is Being Urged On Another Route 209 Traffic Hazard

By JON POWERS

ELLENVILLE

Claiming that Route 209 is a hazard during the early morning school bus route pickups, parents from the Leurenkill section south of Ellenville petitioned the Ellenville Board of Education Tuesday night to study the possibilities of rerouting school bus traffic and to provide additional police surveillance in the area during the morning hours.

Town of Wawarsing Supervisor Frank Harkin told the Board that a dangerous situation in that area does, indeed, exist. Harkin reported that he had surveyed the area personally in response to appeals made by several parents. He urged that action be taken immediately to rectify the situation, at least until construction of the new Route 209 is completed.

After hearing the arguments the Board, on a motion by Eugene Houck, indicated they would seek additional police protection for the area and would also consider rerouting the school buses until the situation is alleviated.

Controversy concerning the narcotics problem in Ellenville was later ignited when Lee Augustine presented a nine-point plan to help combat the influx of drugs in the area. Board officials countered, however, by stating that the school is doing all it can to fight the problem and that the real failure is on the home level. It was further suggested that Augustine's program should be handled by the Narcotics Guidance Council. Later Board President James Murray explained that all groups discussing the drug problem in conjunction with the school were required to have professional supervision.

Augustine's nine point plan included mandatory monthly meetings for teachers on the subject of drug use and abuse, special classes for one or two-time drug offenders, implementation of the "peer group" method of combating drug usage, small group discussions held during class time, appointment of a full-time ex-addict counselor and the formation of a three-man committee to act on the drug problem.

No action was taken by the Board on Augustine's proposals.

Other business included approval of a one-year contract with Edward Traphagen, superintendent of buildings and grounds for the school district.

Ellenville Teachers, Board Apply for State Mediator

ELLENVILLE The Ellenville Teacher's Association and the Ellenville Board of Education, stalemated for months in their contract dispute, have applied for the services of a mediator from the State Public Employment Relations Board.

William Lenard, president of the Teacher's Association, stated that the request for mediation was made by the teachers after their representatives walked out of a meeting with the Board of Education last week.

Ellenville teachers are demanding higher salaries and more say in class size, school disciplinary procedures and curriculum development. Lenard had stated earlier that some of the other issues were more important than the demands for more money.

The call for mediation, which will result in a fact-finding session, was unanimously approved at a meeting of about 125 teachers earlier this week, officials said.

Board of Education officials have declined to comment on the negotiations, stating that they are adhering to an agreement with the teachers that stipulates that no statements will be made to the public while the negotiations are in progress.

Meanwhile, about 75 members of the Teachers Association are expected to continue their "march of support" for their negotiators. The teachers have been marching in front of the Maple Avenue school for about 10 minutes each day prior to classes.

Fish Seeking Jet Planes for Israel

KINGSTON Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr. today joined with the House leadership in urging President Nixon to furnish Israel with additional jet planes for that country's defense.

Among the signers of the letter are Gerald R. Ford, Minority Leader, John W. McCormack, Majority Leader, Carl Albert (D-Okla.), John B. Anderson (R-Ill.), Hale Boggs (D-La.), Bob Wilson (R-Calif.), Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), and John Rhodes (R-Ariz.).

According to Congressman Fish, the bipartisan effort in the House is aimed at demonstrating Congressional backing for increased assistance to Israel at the time the White House and State Department are in the decision making process at this time.

"The House effort is to gain at least two-thirds of the members for backing the decision to sell Israel the additional arms they have requested from this country, to stabilize the Middle Eastern situation," Congressman Fish said. "I have been urging such action by our government for several months now, and am pleased at the large number of Congressmen from every section of our country who also advocate such action at this time."

The letter being sent to the White House points out that it is now public knowledge that the Soviet - Arab aircraft by the number of signatures strength is now four times the strength of that of Israel, and the presence of Soviet fliers and technicians may adversely affect Israel's heretofore qualitative advantage.

The letter also stresses the concern of Congress with the threat of the Soviet presence in the Middle East, as evidenced by the number of signatures affixed to the letter.

New Paltz Principal To Attend Institute

NEW PALTZ Robert Bassik, elementary principal, New Paltz Central School, has been selected as one of 20 public school administrators in New York State to attend the Summer Institute in Teacher Performance Assessment at the State University College, Oswego.

The summer institute will run for three weeks in June and July of this year.

The institute is designed to assist school administrators in establishing specific goals for their school programs. In addition, the participants will be involved in the selection, application and interpretation of data gathering instruments that have been established for recording teaching behaviors.

Bassik resides at 27 Harrington Street in the Village of New Paltz.

Voters in Pine Bush Pass Record Budget

PINE BUSH Pine Bush voters approved a $3.47 million budget but turned down a proposition that would have provided transportation for children attending private schools more than 10 miles from their homes within the district. Voting took place Wednesday at the high school.

The record school budget was passed by a vote of 517-174, and calls for a tax rate of $15.50 per thousand, an increase of $2.50 from last year. Roughly half of the increase was for teacher's salaries, which represented 55 per cent of the budget.

The controversial bussing proposition was defeated by a vote of 407-278. Currently, district school children are provided with transportation to private schools, including parochial schools, that are located within a 10 mile radius of the student's home.

Voters also selected Walter E. Roebuck, a Bullville businessman, to a five year term on the school board to replace Clair Dickenson, who did not run for reelection. Roebuck defeated two other candidates for the position.

Also approved Wednesday was a proposition to increase the size of the school board from five to seven members. That same proposal was made by a group of parents last year, but had to be deferred because it was not presented at least 14 days prior to the election. The proposition was passed by a 415-280 margin.

Good Time to Make Plans

Try a Home Addition With Pool

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Why not put an addition on your house—with a swimming pool in it? It's a good time to make plans for another year, if you can't do it now.

A good solution to the dilemma of swimming pools and child safety may be such a pool room. It is more effective than an outdoor pool that is enclosed but might attract curious small fry.

Neighborhood toddlers are a worry to most pool owners. Some people become so vigilant about an outdoor swimming pool that they cannot enjoy it. Others want a pool but worry about the same problem.

One family wants to have a swimming pool, and they can well afford it, but the father doesn't trust locks, fences, covers. He doesn't think there is a fence made that will discourage a determined child.

But a swimming pool in a room of the house wouldn't attract the little people because the only entrance to it would be from within the house. The extra expense is negligible when you think of the safety features. One pool room that is entered from a dining room has sliding safety glass walls that formerly led to a terrace but now open into the pool room. It also has a circular staircase that goes from the poolside to an upstairs bedroom entrance. This was simply a matter of removing an upstairs window and putting in a door, say the owners.

You could go on and on with the gimmicks that some people can afford, and they make it all sound so simple. But anyone can take short cuts within their budgets using the same basic ideas. You do not have to do everything on such a grand scale.

A do-it-yourselfer could keep costs down because the room should be a rough finished room. This room, a story and a half, is paneled completely in rough sawn cedar, except for floor-to-ceiling glass on one stretch of the outside wall that is directly opposite the sliding glass doors of the dining area. This permits the pool to be bathed in sunshine, and there is a nice outdoor feeling all the time. A completely enclosed pool without glass wouldn't be quite the same.

The 18-by-12-foot pool is heated and it is only six feet at the deep end. The lady of the house insisted on that maximum depth because she feels "that a non-swimmer falling into the pool might quickly manipulate himself to a safe spot."

The pool room is air-conditioned. The family spends so much time in the room all the year that they are sorry that they didn't have a fireplace put in it. They justify the expense because it is just about their sole form of recreation, and they find it is a very inexpensive way to entertain people. People are so grateful for an invitation to swim that they invariably bring their own goodies, and it is no strain on the chef's budget to entertain. The lady of the house finds that most people are embarrassed to come empty-handed. She doesn't discourage their largesse—it's a lot of work cleaning up after a pool party.

The dining room was converted from a formal to an informal room with patio-style tables—round glass covered metal with matching white metal chairs covered in red and white cushions, and some pretty green ferns to provide decorative effects.

The family suggests that a pool expert be consulted before you begin such a project. You need to dig the pool before you build the house frame. You can do a smaller pool and a smaller room, and you don't have to finish the job at once. Many do-it-yourselfers may prefer to stretch out the project if money is scarce. Others may want to make plans for the future.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q.—Will you please tell me if my neighbor is putting me on? I told him about a couple of projects I have in mind—laying some bricks and installing wall-to-wall carpeting. In telling me what I need, he mentioned a left-handed trowel for the brickwork and a knee-kicker for the carpeting. I didn't want him to know how ignorant I am about such things, so I didn't say anything. Are there such things as a left-handed trowel (they all look alike to me) and a knee-kicker?

A.—He was giving it to you straight. Presumably, you are left-handed. A regular trowel for right-handed persons has one edge straight and one slightly curved, although some have two straight edges. The straight left side as you look along the edge is the one you see on the trowel when you hold it by the handle. This is for the operation of picking up the mortar. The curved edge is for cutting bricks, a step you should not attempt. If you have to cut any bricks, use a hammer and cold chisel. With a left-handed trowel, the edges are reversed.

A knee-kicker is just that. When placed on the floor in a horizontal position, its padded end is jolted with your knee to stretch the carpet into position. Unless you plan to do a lot of carpet installing, better rent rather than buy one. And have the dealer show you exactly how to use it. Hope you aren't in over your head in attempting to put down wall-to-wall carpeting. It can be an arduous task.

Q.—We have three pieces of dining room furniture with a limed oak finish. We recently obtained a fourth piece that fits in with the rest but doesn't have that kind of finish. I'd like to try my hand at giving it a limed oak finish, but don't know how to go about it, although I have done other kinds of wood finishing in the past. Can you help me?

A.—The first thing to be done is to take off the old finish with a commercial remover, being sure to follow the directions on washing off the residue after the job is done. Next, apply a bleach to the wood. At this point, compare the color of the wood with that of the furniture to be matched.

It's Randall and Plus-1 Against the Field

TRADE FIGURES — Milwaukee Brewers traded Outfielder Steve Hovley (C) to the Oakland Athletics for Pinch Hitter Tito Francona (R) and Pitcher Al Downing. Hovley recently refused to pay a fine for being late. The fine was ordered by Brewers' Manager Dave Bristol. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Jim Northrup Unloads His Eighth Grand Slam

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS) It's been a long time between grand slam homers for Jim Northrup but the slugging center fielder of the Detroit Tigers might have started something with his big blow against Milwaukee.

Northrup ripped his eighth career grand slam Thursday night, snapping a 2-2 tie and sending the Tigers to a 6-2 triumph over Milwaukee. The blow came off left-hander John O'Donoghue, who entered the game just to pitch to the lefty swinging Northrup.

In the only other scheduled American League games, Baltimore crushed California 9-1 and Cleveland nipped Oakland 6-5 in 10 innings. The Washington at Kansas City contest was called by rain.

In National League action, Montreal belted Cincinnati 8-4. Atlanta downed Philadelphia 6-4. The Chicago Cubs whipped San Diego 7-1 and Los Angeles edged St. Louis 2-1 in 12 innings.

The 30-year-old Northrup, in his sixth major league campaign, last clouted a grand slam in 1968 when he ripped four in regular season play and added another in the sixth game of the World Series against St. Louis.

With Detroit's triumph Thursday night, the Tigers went over the .500 mark with a 27-26 record and remained nine games behind East Division leading Baltimore, riding to their third straight victory.

And if Northrup's clout is an omen... the Tigers were the world champions in 1968 but finished second last year when the 6-foot-2, 190-pounder was blanked in the grand slam department. Also, Denny McLain, Detroit's ace right-hander returns for action in less than three weeks.

The two-time Cy Young award winner, coming off a half-season suspension, is scheduled to start against the New York Yankees on July 1.

Northrup, now batting .283 with eight homers and 31 RBI, helped the Tigers tie the game at 2-2 in the seventh when he scored after walking and moving to second on a sacrifice. He came home on loser Gene Brabender's wild pickoff attempt at second.

Winner Joe Niekro, 6-5, scattered seven hits but needed ninth inning relief help before Milwaukee was subdued.

The Orioles slammed four homers, including a three-run shot by Dave Johnson and got two-hit pitching from Mike Cuellar in stopping the Angels.

Merv Rettenmund, Frank Robinson and Boog Powell also ripped round-trippers for the Orioles. It was Powell's 17th of the season, giving him the AL lead. Cuellar, 7-4, issued a first inning double to Jarvis Tatum and a single by Sandy Alomar in the third.

Chuck Hinton clubbed a two-run pinch homer in the ninth to tie the score and rookie Roy Foster slammed another two-run blow to give the Indians their victory. Jack Heideman and Eddie Leon also crashed homers for Cleveland. Felipe Alou and Joe Rudi drilled solo blows for the A's.

By CHARLES J. TIANO Sports Editor

Leon Randall of Wiltwyck, who has dominated the Herdegen Memorial Golf Tournament for the past 19 years, moves into the 20th renewal Saturday in a class by himself.

A recent shuffling of handicap ratings at Wiltwyck has elevated Randall to the imperial rating of plus-1. What this means is that every time Randall posts a score, he must add one more stroke to his final tally.

So far as this observer can recall, only one other amateur golfer in the past three decades was ever accorded that lofty rating—Willie Turnesa of Westchester when he was U.S. and British Amateur champion.

Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, a seven-time New York State Amateur champion, always played at scratch (zero handicap) as did Randall for the past several years.

Won Seven Titles

The plus-1 rating doesn't alter the Herdegen Memorial picture very much. Randall, who has won seven titles and had five seconds and a tie for first place in 19 years, is like the Ben Hogan of the 1950s—the man to beat every time out.

George Hughes managed to do it four times, Bill Van Aken thrice. Randall's long-time crony, Harvey Bostic, the defending champion, has two Herdegen titles to his credit.

Feenev-Richter Take Partners

KINGSTON Mrs. Barnard Feenev Jr. and Mrs. Hubert Richter combined for a best-ball 38-31-69 to capture first place in the Member tournament for The Twaalfskill Club women.

Runnersup were Mrs. Harry Thayer and Mrs. John Olivet with 33-39-72. Other scores: Mrs. Burton Davis-Mrs. Eugene Berardi, 36-37-73; Mrs. Paul Coon-Mrs. P. LeFever, 42-37-79; Mrs. N. Levan Haver-Mrs. Edmund O'Reilly, 40-39-79.

One-time winners include Clarence Raichle (1952), William (Muzzy) Costello (1963) and Ricky Barthel (1964). Costello defeated Randall in a thrilling five extra hole playoff for his lone title, then lost to Barthel by two strokes in 1964.

Since Randall and Bostic have dominated the past five tournaments, it's up to the remainder of a star-studded field to do something about the Wiltwyck monopoly.

Top newcomer in the field is Charlie Shiverick, the IBM player who, sight unseen, posted a 75 to lead the at-large qualifying round at the Sawyerkill Wednesday.

Former champions Hughes, Van Aken and Barthel are among the challengers. Van Aken hasn't won since 1958 and Hughes' last title came in 1961. There is an abundance of collegiate and scholastic talent. David Blakely, the 1969 Wiltwyck champion, and Werner Kolln of Albany State U. head the collegians. The high school contingent features two of the finest prospects in recent years—Joe Bostic of Kingston High and John Buymaster of Onteora.

Others in the high school group include Vlad Hoyt and Howie Gordon of Onteora, Doug Tatara of Kingston High and Ted Decker, the bare-footed boy from Rondout.

New Paltz State U. is represented by a formidable quartet of Bill Odeneal, Doug Sheppard, Syl Pesavento and Robert Rizuti.

The hunch and long shot players think one of the trio of Charlie Stauffer and Bill Kaufman of Wiltwyck or Sawyerkill champion Andy Jasienowski might terminate the Randall-Bostic monopoly.

The Saturday round at Sawyerkill will be played from the tiger tees, stretching the par 36-36-72 layout to 6890 yards, making it one of the longest nine hole golf courses in the state.

Alternate tees are used on eight of the nine holes, completely changing the characteristics and the shot lanes on many of the holes.

The tournament record of 275 for the 72 holes was set in 1958 by Bill Van Aken, when he carded 67 at Shawangunk, 68 at Woodstock, 74 at Wiltwyck and 66 at Twaalfskill.

Ricky Barthel and George Hughes share the hole records of 63, both set at Woodstock. Hughes did it in the 1951 inaugural, Barthel in winning the 1964 event.

LEON RANDALL

It's Now Win or Pack Time

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—It's Sunday as Mexico or Russia win from now on in the World Cup Soccer championships, or pack for home. It's that simple. Mexico, Russia, Italy, Uruguay, Brazil, England, West Germany and Peru survived the group round-robin qualifications and square up for the quarterfinals Sunday where the loser takes the plane home. It's sudden death from now on.

The survivors rested up Friday in readiness for the quarters, although some teams will have to travel to new playing sites.

The quarter-final pairings for Sunday are Mexico or Russia against Uruguay at Mexico City, Mexico or Russia against Italy at Toluca, Brazil against Peru at Guadalajara and West Germany against England at Leon.

The International Football Federation (FIFA) must decide whether Mexico or Russia travels to Toluca. The teams finished even at five points each and with a goal difference of five in group I. The group winner stays at the Aztec Stadium.

Mexican officials are de-manding the host nation be allowed to remain at the 107,000 seat Aztec Stadium, claiming a precedent was set in 1966 when England won the Cup stake, although neither disallowed leaving home base at Wembley.

The Russians, however, also minute penalty, also a disputed shot, for England's 1-0 triumph over Czechoslovakia, while Italy was held to a scoreless tie by the amateur Israeli outfit.

In another match, of no particular conditions and don't interest as both teams were out of quarterfinals contention, Mexico made it into the quarter-finals with a disputed 1-1 tie at Leon.

Rondout's Baseball Flag First Ever for Ganders

By MORT LAFFIN STONE RIDGE

The Ganders of Rondout Valley High School won their first-ever baseball title in the Ulster County Athletic League and Coach Hal Ross will remember it for a long time to come.

"This has been a real, sweet victory," said Ross. It has been a long time coming. We have had a couple of seconds and thirds, but, this is the first UCAL title ever. When I was a coach at Walden in the old Orange County League, we won it all, but this is one I really relish."

Rondout posted a 10-2 league mark and went 14-4 overall. The champs wrapped the title up three games before the end of the UCAL season, winning four tilts by one run and two by two.

Mike Alecca, ALL-UCAL outfielder and the team's leading chucker, paced the champs most of the season. Alecca had a 5-0 record, all in the league and batted .325, with 21 hits in 64 at bats. Although hitting in the league and batted .325, with 21 hits in 64 at bats. Although hitting in the lead-off spot most of the time, Alecca led the team in runs batted in with 20.

Hyler VanWagenen and Jim DeWitt were 4-1 each. Both had one loss in UCAL play. DeWitt won all of his games in relief. Hyler won two key games in the league. DeWitt was 3-0 ERA. VanWagenen, 3-2. Mike Botsakos was 1-0 non-league and had a 4.0 ERA. The young hurler was also used as a pinch hitter and went nine-for-18 and a .500 average.

In addition to his pitching, VanWagenen put to rest the old saw that pitchers are terrible hitters as he pounded out 17 hits in 49 at bats for a team-leading .367.

George Wallack, slugging shortstop, got off to a slow start with the bat, but made up for it as the season progressed. Rated by many as the best fielding shortstop in the area, Wallack hit .327.

John Durcan hit .319 and Bill Wilkins had a .312 average. Both men collected 15 RBIs.

"Everybody figured next year Bating and pitching records:

McCarthy Rips Ottinger on Campaign Funds
BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Richard Max McCarthy accused primary election foe Rep. Richard Ottinger Thursday of excessive spending on his campaign.
"It is already clear that Mr. Ottinger has violated the spirit if not the letter of New York State's election laws which limits a candidate's spending this year to $367,000," McCarthy said.
The two men are seeking the Democratic Party nomination for U.S. Senator.
The Buffalo congressman said he considered Ottinger's extensive radio and television advertising campaign to be a violation of the Federal Communications Commission's Fairness Doctrine. The doctrine requires that candidates for public office have equal access to channels of communication.
"I shall press the FCC to take action on this case," McCarthy said.
He said Ottinger "chooses to spend $2 million on paid television spot commercials as if he were selling a soap product" and said the Westchester representative had "sought to avoid a meeting with the other candidates in an unrehearsed debate."
The two are in a four-way race with Theodore Sorensen and Paul O'Dwyer.

Brief Scuffle Ends in Death
NEW YORK (AP) — A New York City corrections officer fatally wounded a Brooklyn man Thursday night after a brief scuffle, police said.
The dead man was identified as Noel B. Hanger, 29, who, police said, was formerly associated with a Pittsfield, Mass., anti-poverty agency.
Police said Hanger was shot after he pulled a six-inch pairing knife and lunged it at Richard K. Gumbs, Gumbs reportedly fired his service revolver at Hanger.
A city police spokesman said Gumbs was leaving his mother's apartment at 84 Carlton Ave., in the Park Slope section of Brooklyn, when the incident occurred. Hanger was a resident of the same building.

LEGAL NOTICE
NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Project No. 6909
Town of New Paltz
Highway Department Buildings
Pioneer Trail
New Paltz, New York
The Town of New Paltz, County of Ulster, Stock, in and invites separate sealed bids for GENERAL CONSTRUCTION WORK, HEATING AND VENTILATING WORK, PLUMBING WORK, and ELECTRICAL WORK for the construction of the Town of New Paltz Highway Department Buildings.
Separate sealed proposals will be received by the Town Clerk of the Town of New Paltz, New York, until 2:00 P.M. DST on June 29, 1970, at Town Hall, 23 Plattkill Avenue, P.O. Box 12561, New York, New York 12561. All proposals received pursuant to this notice will be publicly opened and read.
This contract includes:
The construction of two (2) Highway Department Buildings located at Pioneer Trail, New Paltz, New York in conformance with the attached specifications.
Specifications and Contract are subject to provisions of Chapter 605, Laws of the State of New York of 1959, Section 108-A, of the General Municipal Law, and Section 220-B of the Labor Law of the State of New York.
Specifications, form of proposal and contract may be obtained at the office of the Architect, Ralph L. Gionta A.I.A., 25 Market Street, Poughkeepsie, New York, upon payment of $40.00 for each set. Any bidder, upon returning such set promptly and in good condition, will be refunded his payment, and any non-bidder upon so returning such set will be refunded $20.00.
The proposal shall be accompanied by a bid bond or a certified check for five per cent (5%) of the total amount of the bid in the form and subject to conditions provided in the Form of Bid and Bid Bond and made payable to the Town of New Paltz, New York.
The Town of New Paltz reserves the right to waive any informality in the bids and to reject any or all bids. Attention of the bidders is called to the provisions provided in the "General Conditions" and "Supplementary General Conditions."

Dear Abby

Friend Lied to Doctor

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your answer to "STEADY READER." You gave this meddling woman the go-ahead to call her dear friend's doctor and offer his "information" about his patient.

I think this is very sneaky. I, too, had a "dear friend" who called my psychiatrist and told him things about me she thought he ought to know. (This was all done "for my own good," of course.)

It wasn't necessary, however, because I had always been completely honest with my psychiatrist. Well, he chose to believe her lies instead of my truths and now I no longer have a psychiatrist OR a "dear friend."

I wouldn't set foot into another psychiatrist's office if you paid me. And as for a doctor who would take the word of a third party in preference to the person he is treating—let him send HER the bill.

EX-PATIENT

DEAR EX: I advised STEADY READER to tell her friend that if she herself didn't tell her doctor that she had three sources for her pills he had prescribed for her, she (STEADY READER) should tip the doctor off. This, I think would have been a kindness.

If your psychiatrist actually accepted the "lies" of a third party in preference to your truths, then he needs a psychiatrist. But, if you were only imagining that your friend and your doctor were "conspiring" against you, then I think you desperately need to return for more therapy.

DEAR ABBY: Our high school senior son is "in love" with a 12-year-old girl. He is a good student (or he was until his grades took a nosedive).

he's on the basketball team and has never even dated a girl before this one. She is a seventh grader and isn't allowed to date, but they get together at our house because she has suddenly become "best friends" with our 13-year-old daughter. I won't go into detail here, but I found a "love letter" this girl wrote to our son, which confirmed everything I had suspected. This little girl is mature beyond her years, and they are headed for serious trouble if something isn't done to keep them apart, or cooled off.

Should my husband talk to our son? Should I talk to the girl? Should my husband talk to the kids together? Should we just handle our son, and let the girl's parents handle her? All I need now is a 12-year-old daughter-in-law with a baby on the way! WORRIED STIFF

DEAR WORRIED: Have your husband talk to your son. YOU talk to the girl. Then the both of YOU talk to the kids together. THEN, tell the girl's mother that half the battle is hers!

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother asked my husband to give her the money he was going to spend on my birthday present, and they would give me something "together" which she would pick out.

Well, she picked out a loud pink and orange plaid coat with a low belt all around. I have always had a weight problem, and would never dream of wearing anything that looked like that and she surely must have known it.

My mother-in-law has excellent taste when it comes to selecting her own clothes. What would you say happened in this case, Abby? And how would you have handled it?

BURNED UP IN BATON ROUGE

DEAR BURNED: There are two possibilities. Either she did it on purpose, or she didn't. Regardless, I would have handled it very carefully while placing it in its original box to return it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SOL. S. MY 84-YEAR-OLD BOY: FRIEND IN CHICAGO: I might have known that you were no ordinary man. Like fine wine and violins, you improve with age. Shalom, Sweetheart!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope. Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be careful you do not alienate anyone of importance who can be helpful to you during the early part of the day. Avoid any sudden actions that could throw anyone else off base. However, the afternoon and evenings are fine for joining forces with important men and coming to a new understanding with others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning could be rather difficult with an annoyed associate, but later all smooths out very nicely. Do little talking in the morning. Later, you find you can express yourself well. Be happy in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be careful that you do not irritate a co-worker this morning or vice versa. Keep on an even keel. Keep busy at details connected with your own work and all is fine. Show devotion to mate and kin in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Steer clear of an argument with a loved one this morning and get busy at work on hand. The evening can then be a happy one with friends. Buy a nice gift for mate. Don't forget to pay that important bill.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't argue over any minor matter at home this morning. Keep busy at constructive matters. Plan a happy evening with friends at home. Ease tensions and have a very good time. Be cheerful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't take up any fast plans in the morning but think them over carefully, then take friends out to lunch and discuss pertinent matters. Get creative skills working in the evening. Show that you are a clever person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't commit yourself to anything in the morning without plenty of thought, study. In the afternoon you can see how to make needed changes. Listen to business expert's advice regarding finances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Showing others you have patience this morning is wise and then balancing everything before putting in operation is the best way to proceed. Some delay in the morning will gain you personal aims. Be sociable tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A hunch this morning is not accurate so don't follow it, but solve problem in the afternoon by using a different tactic. Daytime is good for some investigation of whatever you do not understand. Drive carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your morning could be spoiled by the antics of a friend who is not thinking straight, but after lunch everything changes for the better. Use those clever ideas for social finesse. Be happy tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care in handling duties in business this morning. Later, you can talk over aims with a powerful individual. Don't go off on any tangents early in the day; later, everything is fine. Be ambitious.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to try a new approach if you want to gain your best aims and the afternoon is the best time to put in operation. Talk over aims with new partners and then study their ideas in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some responsibility is annoying today whether of a personal or business nature or connected with government, but by the evening you know how to solve everything satisfactorily. Don't argue with a loved one early. By evening all is fine.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who will be unpredictable and difficult to cope with. Later, your child benefits greatly from early experiences and becomes a very stable and solid citizen. This child will do well in whatever career deals with the public directly—selling, politics, theater, etc. There is ability at fine detail here, and touch that is very neat.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for July is now ready. For a copy, send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HAIR BATTLE: (Q.) My boy friend is letting his hair grow a little—just to his collar in back, and on the sides down to his ear lobes. He keeps it clean and well-brushed, and he keeps the rest of himself, including his clothes, in good shape. But my mother is having fits about his hair. He lives next door and she sees him just about every day. Every time she sees him she starts in all over again.

We are endlessly arguing about it. I am thinking about running away. Can you help me?—Harassed About Hair in Milford, Conn.

(A.) Your boy friend's hair is in fashion and clean and neat, so your mother really has no complaint except that she does not like for the world to change.

No matter how much she resists change, it is going to happen.

Maybe if your mother and other mothers read this it will help them to get your world—and theirs—into better focus.

PALE LIPS: (Q.) A girl wrote you that she was 11½ and couldn't wear make-up. You said a little would be OK. I showed it to my mother and she said, "Show me a mother that agrees with that answer." I'm 11½, too, and I agree with the answer. All my friends' mothers must agree with it, too. But mine doesn't. How can I get her to agree?—Unmade-Up in Florida.

(A.) If you and your mother make big issues of small matters like this you may be in real trouble by the time you're 16. That's when you and she will have really major problems facing you. Show her this answer.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

Double Plum for Newcomer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray Stevens, a quiet and unassuming young man from Nashville, will become the star of his own television series at a time when his record, "Everything is Beautiful," is hitting the top of the best-seller charts.

He will be launched June 20 as Andy Williams' summer replacement on NBC and will appear on eight programs and two repeats called "Andy Williams Presents the Ray Stevens Show."

The double question marks of the title—"There are supposed to be three," said Ray—are an inside joke. When Williams and associates told NBC executives their summer plans, the first question was, "Who is Ray Stevens?"

"They also brought a sack of mail sent to me," Ray said. "I am told that after Andy and after his bear, I was getting the most mail."

Stevens appeared as a guest on six of Andy's shows during the past season and is so tangled in Williams' business that he almost qualifies as an adopted brother.

Not yet 30, Stevens majored in music at Georgia State and earned part of his keep by playing piano. This expanded into a popular combo and his comedy was sharpened by filling time between the dance numbers.

"I moved to Nashville in 1962," Stevens said, "and was making good money from my own records, arranging for others, producing records and playing piano for other performers."

Two years ago Don Williams, Andy's brother who manages musical talent, went on a scouting trip to Nashville. Don became Ray's manager and a little over a year later Ray was booked on Andy's show. Stevens' best-selling records are turned out by Williams' recording company.

The summer series was taped during five hectic weeks in Toronto. Since even Andy's bear is on vacation, Ray has his own company including Mama Cass and the British singer Lulu.

His first hit was "Ahab the Arab," a comedy piece, but Stevens' moods as composer and performer are many. Currently he is concerned with recording a new piece for which he has high hopes.

"Somebody said—and I'd been thinking—that what this country needs is a patriotic song that is hip enough to be accepted by the record buyers and become established as a hit," he said.

"I figure I'm about average in everything from politics to morals, so I've written about patriotism, seen through the eyes of a guy who is neither Jerry Ruben nor George Wallace. I'm just saying let's get together and take the same path down the middle and get the problems solved. I hope it means what 'God Bless America' meant when it came out."

"Curiouser and curiouser" thought Alice. "This was supposed to be a tea party and now I am playing bridge. What's more, my partner, the dormouse seems to be asleep and I am looking at the worst hand I have ever seen."

Alice was East and certainly had a bad hand. Matters didn't improve when the Mad Hatter opened with two spades and his partner, the March Hare, gave a positive response of three hearts.

The dormouse continued to sleep while his opponents worked their way up to six spades. He awakened long enough to lead the queen of clubs and proceeded to fall asleep again while the Hatter studied the dummy for an interminable period of time. Alice would have fallen asleep herself if her chair had been at all comfortable. As it was she squirmed and wondered why she was in any sort of bridge game.

Eventually the Hatter won the trick with the ace and led the deuce of spades. The dormouse awakened again and murmured "trumps, trumps, what are trumps?" Then he played the four-spot.

The Hatter tranced again and finally played dummy's five. Alice produced the six and that was when play ended. "Never send a boy on a man's errand," yelled the March Hare. "It was a finesse," roared the Hatter. "What finesse? Who ever heard of finessing a five-spot?" cried the March

Enemy Attacks Key Link to Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces today attacked the provincial capital of Kompong Speu on the highway linking Phnom Penh with Cambodia's main seaport. In Vietnam, six Americans were feared dead in a helicopter crash.

Cambodian military spokesmen said the Communists attacked Kompong Speu, 30 miles west-southwest of Phnom Penh, at 4 a.m., and the fighting intensified. The city is on the vital highway linking the capital with Kompong Som, a port known as Ninh City. Four other Americans were wounded when another chopper was shot down in the Mekong Delta. American military spokesmen in Saigon said Communist troops ambushed a U.S. mechanized infantry unit in the Cambodian Fish Hook area casualties of at least six dead Thursday and killed three and 29 wounded. The fighting in Cambodia near Siem Reap airport outside Angkor Wat ruins slackened. Cambodian casualties were listed as two dead and six wounded. The clashes cost U.S.

Asked whether Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops were physically inside the Angkor Wat complex of 9th century temples and shrines, a military spokesman said, "We do not know exactly."

"We are doing nothing," the spokesman said. "We consider the area of the temples a place to avoid any possible destruction of the temples."

Senate Vote on Cambodia-- Could Be Shallow Victory

WASHINGTON (AP)—Antiwar forces in the Senate have paved the way for expected approval of a proposal to curtail future U.S. actions in Cambodia, but the victory could be more symbolic than substantial because of continued White House and House opposition.

The Senate defeated 52-47 Thursday a key administration-backed amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., that proponents said would have emasculated the curb on presidential war powers. Both sides said the vote signified passage of the Cooper-Church amendment next week.

With the Byrd vote out of the way, the Senate turned its attention today to an amendment by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to cut all funds out of the military sales appropriation bill for gifts and credit sales of firearms or military equipment to other nations.

Many strong supporters of the Cooper-Church amendment oppose the military sales authority provisions of the bill. Both the House and the Nixon administration have a diametrically opposite point of view. Thus, the Cooper-Church forces in the Senate hope to use the administration's strong desire for the military sales authority as a lever on the House when the bill goes to conference, assuming the Senate approves it.

Second Since '67 War Israel Troops Cross

By United Press International
Israel said today its commandos raided Egypt's front line positions across the Suez Canal during the night for the second time since the 1967 war, killing more than 20 Egyptians.

Egypt said it fended off the attacks with artillery and tank fire, however, killing 20 Israelis and wounding 40. An Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said two commando raids destroyed an Egyptian guard station nine miles north of Ras Ghareb on the western shore of the Gulf of Suez and a mile stretch of bunkers north of El Qantara on the Suez Canal.

An Egyptian military spokesman in Cairo said the position on the Gulf of Suez hit by Israel Thursday night was a police station rather than a military installation, and that one policeman was killed. He said more than 20 Israeli fighter bombers attacked Egypt's front line positions.

In Beirut, a military spokesman said Israeli artillery fire killed three civilians and wounded three others early today in the Arab village of Al-Sulayyeh in Southeastern Lebanon, four miles from the Israeli-occupied Syrian Golan Heights.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Palestine Frees The 80 Hostages

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Palestinian guerrillas today released about 80 American, British and German citizens who had been held hostage in downtown hotels since Tuesday, the Middle East News Agency (MENA) said.

The agency quoted a spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) as saying the guerrillas withdrew from the International and Philadelphia hotels after releasing the hostages.

The king called it his final concession to the guerrillas, who are seeking a free rein to raid Israel from bases in Jordan. "This is the last chance and will not be followed by another," Hussein said. He said if the guerrillas did not heed his warning, he would be "forced to correct the situation and save the people from their present misery."

Military observers said Hussein's army, which ringed Amman with tanks and heavy weapons today, probably could crush the commandos out such an action would almost certainly tear the country apart. At least 104 persons have been killed and more than 400 wounded in the fighting that began in Amman Tuesday, unofficial sources said. Some sources said as many as 500 had died.

Those freed included UPI correspondent Gerard Loughran. The PFLP had threatened to blow up the hotels unless Jordan stopped shelling Palestinian refugee camps. King Hussein helped defuse the situation Thursday night by announcing the resignation of his uncle, army Commander-in-Chief Sherif Nasser ben Jamil and Gen. Sherif Zaid ben Shaker in a major concession to the guerrillas who were holding a major portion of the capital. Political observers in Beirut described it as a major victory for the Palestinian commandos and said the two sides probably would reach a compromise on the other points of dispute. The king called it his final concession to the guerrillas, who are seeking a free rein to raid Israel from bases in Jordan. "This is the last chance and will not be followed by another," Hussein said. He said if the guerrillas did not heed his warning, he would be "forced to correct the situation and save the people from their present misery."

The Soviet Union criticized the guerrillas today for their activities against Hussein's government, and accused the United States of stirring up the trouble in Jordan. In Cairo, a close confidant of President Gamal Abdel Nasser said America would supply Israel with more warplanes but might keep the deal secret.

Church also opposes this. Referring to Britain's use of Hessian mercenaries against the colonists during the U.S. Revolutionary War, he said Nixon Doctrine ought not to be one of Hessians unlimited.
